Top Of The Morning

WEATHER

Yesterday's weather was so popular it's been held over through tomorrow. The chance of precipitation is near zero today and tomorrow, with highs in the mid-60's both days. Tonight's low will be in the mid-30's. Winds today and tonight will be northeasterly at 10 to 20 miles an hour. Sunrise today is at 5:48 a.m., sunset at 8:50 p.m. Yesterday's weather: no precipitation, the river at 3.5 feet and falling, high 67, low 35.

Kinsua Dam Report

Pool level: 1329.46 feet (desired summer pool 1328 maximum 1365). Outflow temperature, 48, upper reservoir, 55. Reading at the Warren gauge, 3.51 feet.

WARREN COUNTY

County Commissioner Lewis Crippen has resigned the chairmanship of the Hoffman Home board of trustees, recommending that Blain Mead take the chair. Crippen said he made the move because the recent election was, in his opinion, a mandate for Mead's programs. Mead has opposed some county financing of the orphanage. Page One.

Highways Secretary Robert Bartlett, speaking in Wellsboro said Route 6 is important to Pennsylvania as the Main Street of the northern tier counties of the state. He said the Youngsville bypass, and the Warren bypass, are indications of the highway's growth. Page B1.

County Treasurer Jack McCool has filed an answer to the pre-election charges in a civil action seeking a writ of mandamus over two tracts of property. McCool said those complaining have no legal claim on the disputed properties. Page B1.

PENNSYLVANIA

Governor Shafer goes before the General Assembly today to recommend methods of raising the taxes for his $1.8 billion budget. Among the main conjectures for the tax increase is a graduated income tax. Page One.

NEW YORK STATE

The New York State lottery goes into effect today to support rising educational costs in the state. There has been no flurry of activity at outlets to prepare for the lottery, which is based on horse races. Page A2.

THE NATION

A special committee of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare will consider, among other things, subsidizing the cost of drugs for the elderly through the Medicare program. Another item to be studied is the wide difference between prices of drugs for agencies of the government and in different communities. Page A2.

FBI director J. Edgar Hoover has taken issue with civil rights leaders who are predicting racial riots in the nation's major cities this summer. Hoover said such predictions are "an open invitation" to hoodlums who incite the riots. Page A12.

THE WORLD

The Mideast crisis appeared nowhere nearer settlement. In Washington, officials said three other nations—the Netherlands, Britain, and Portugal—have pledged themselves to joining a multinational force of the maritime nations to test the Arab blockade of the Aqaba Gulf. In Israel, a shakeup of the defense organization remained hazy because of censored news reports. And in Cairo, the Egyptian armed forces were bolstered by pledges from Sudan. Page One, A-3.

In the Mediterranean, the Sixth Fleet continues to be followed by a Soviet destroyer escort, which is observing the international laws of the sea. The trawler reported in the area yesterday has dropped out of sight, and no sign has been seen of a Russian 10-ship task force said to have cleared the Dardanelles.

SPORTS

Roy Swanson bowed out of Warren Area High School baseball yesterday by firing a one-hitter as the Dragons whipped Olean, N.Y., 5-0. In his final game for the Blue and White, the ace righthander struckout 13 Olean batters over seven innings, went two-for-three at the plate and scored two runs. Page A8.

In local softball, Nichols U-Haul edged Betts Machine, 4-3 and Warren Beverage nipped Sons of Italy, 5-4 in the City League; Twin Drive-In slipped past City Ice and Beverage, 6-5 and the Mineral Well Mets routed Surf Club, 17-6 in the Recreation League. Page A8-9.

A. J. Foyt won his third Indianapolis 500 classic yesterday when front-running Parnelli Jones developed trouble in his gear box and had to retire from the race with just 7 1/2 miles to go. Foyt, who had decided to settle for second place before Jones was forced out, threaded his way through a five-car pileup at the head of the mainstretch to win in record time. Page A8.

Crippen Resigns Hoffman Home Chairman's Position

Warren County Commissioner Lewis L. Crippen yesterday resigned as chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Hoffman Children's Home here.

Crippen also nominated Blain M. Mead to fill his shoes, a move which D. H. Lay failed to second. Mead also refused to provide the necessary two to one vote.

Lay did second the motion to accept Crippen's resignation, which was effective immediately. Crippen again nominated Mead but failed to get a second. Crippen said he did not think the second necessary and would consult Roberts Rules of Order for a determination.

In the meantime, it appeared that until the chairmanship issue is resolved there will be no more meetings of the board. The Board is comprised of the three county commissioners. They receive additional remuneration in addition to their regular salaries.

Civil War Imminent In Nigeria

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Prospects of war between troops of the federal government and Nigeria's secessionist Eastern region led diplomats to arrange yesterday for an exodus of 700 Americans from the rebel territory.

Some Britons and Italians also may pull out.

About 2,000 Americans, including 125 Peace Corps volunteers, live and work in the Eastern region, which its military governor, Lt. Col. C. Odumegwu Ojukwu, proclaimed Tuesday to be the independent Republic of Biafra.

U.S. Ambassador Elbert G. Mathews advised American firms to pull out dependents. The 700 — women and children and others described as "unable to travel quickly in an emergency" — will leave in a privately chartered airlift scheduled to start Saturday from Enugu, the Eastern capital, and the port of Harcourt.

It also was learned that dependents of American diplomats on leave will not be permitted to return. No decision has been reached on whether the U.S. consul, Agency for International Development staff members and the Peace Corps volunteers should be removed.

Three thousand Britons and 300 Italians are in the 30,099-square-mile Eastern territory. British and Italian authorities began making arrangements for their withdrawal.

In presenting his resignation, which he said Mead had already asked for once, Crippen noted that in a post-election conference, he and Mead agreed the electorate had accepted Mead's programs and proposals and rebuked those supported by Lay and Crippen.

Lay and Crippen were defeated in their bids for re-election at the May primary election. Crippen stated that although much publicity was given an agreement that the Hoffman Home improvement program would be delayed for a decision of the new board of county commissioners, during the past two weeks "not a single individual has contacted me in support of a better Hoffman Home."

Crippen added there is no official indication by the four candidates for county commissioner that they will support a $60,000 improvement program as proposed. According to the minority commissioner, he contacted both Democrat candidates Chester Walker and Thomas Donnelly stating his willingness to meet with them, discuss the various programs and to seek some indication of their feelings. Crippen said he had no response from these men nor from Republican candidates, to whom he also made his availability known.

Crippen said Mead has assured him that state officials in the Department of Public Welfare agree the Home should be closed and will, if necessary, testify on his behalf.

"To rebuild it now," he said, "and close it next year would be foolhardy."

Mead said he was expecting official word from Harrisburg in regard to the Hoffman Home and said one top official told him recently there was no need here for the children's home. He added that more and more counties were closing such institutions. Crippen advised the problem is complicated by his and Lay's position in the Cobham case before the county court. They have offered a plan for joint administration of the Hoffman Home with the Salvation Army to preserve a $250,000 fund for the benefit of county orphans and the county children's home.

Monaural Record Prices Going Up

NEW YORK (AP) — Record buyers are going to have to pay as much for monaural records of Bach and the Beatles as they do for stereo, major record companies said yesterday.

They added that monaural records soon may disappear altogether.

RCA Victor monaural record prices go up $1 today, making them the same as stereo prices. Columbia Records will follow suit Monday, and Capitol Records July 1.

Shafer May Ask For Income Tax In Speech Today

By JOHN L. TAYLOR

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer, seeking to balance his proposed $1.861 billion budget, goes before the General Assembly today with the unpleasant task of recommending new taxes.

The governor, expected to ask for enactment of the first state income tax in Pennsylvania history, is scheduled to deliver his special message at 1 p. m. EDT, before a joint session of the House and Senate.

The lawmakers are being called back from a Memorial holiday recess for the purpose of hearing the governor's proposals. In the weeks ahead, they will decide what new taxes if any, will be levied and who will pay them.

A tax study commission, named by Shafer shortly after his election last November, recommended several revenue-raising measures. The governor was expected to alter them somewhat, however, so as to put less of a bite on the consumer.

The commission's proposals would extract the $298.8 million the administration needs in the coming fiscal year at a ratio of 90 per cent from the consumer and 10 per cent from business.

The current tax ratio is 72 per cent from the consumer and 28 per cent from business.

Minority Democrats in the legislature have served notice on Shafer they will not buy a tax package that they believe is inequitable. There also has been similar sentiment expressed by Republicans.

Here is what the tax study commission recommended:

— A 1 per cent tax on adjusted net income (after federal deductions), retroactive to Jan. 1, expected to yield $195 million.

— Extension of the 5 per cent sales tax to include trade-in values, now exempt, estimated to yield $30 million.

— An excise tax on all tobacco products other than cigarettes, yield of $17.8 million.

— A reduction of the sales tax exemption on food sold in restaurants from 50 to 25 cents, yield of $10 million.

— Permanent retention of the special one-cent tax on cigarettes for the Korean veterans bonus. The tax was due to expire this year since the bonds sold for the bonus payments have been retired.

The commission also recommended the following additional levies on business:

— An increase from 6 to 7 per cent in the corporate net income tax for an added yield of $38 million.

— An increase in the gross receipts tax on utilities from 14 to 16 mills, yield of $4.6 million.

However, the commission suggested that the governor propose a change in the tax structure to give firms incorporated in Pennsylvania the same break in calculating tax payments as that which out-of-state companies currently have.

Adoption of the tax incentive plan would lose the state $13.3 million and the consumer $269.5 million toward the administration's additional revenue needs.

WITH THREE NATIONS

U.S. May Test Arab Blockade

By JOHN W. FINNEY

(c) N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — Three western nations — Britain, the Netherlands and Portugal — were reported by diplomatic sources yesterday to have pledged their support to a concerted effort by maritime powers to contest the Egyptian blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba.

As proposed by the United States, this coordinated effort of maritime powers calls for the establishment of an international naval force that could provide armed escort, if necessary, for western merchant ships attempting to test the Egyptian blockade.

The U.S. attack carrier Intrepid was ordered yesterday to pass through the Suez Canal to place it in the Red Sea in the immediate vicinity of the Gulf of Aqaba. A report from Port Said, Egypt, last night said that the Intrepid was preparing to enter the Suez Canal.

However, both State and Defense Department officials said the carrier, equipped with about 70 jet attack planes, was en route to assignment in the Vietnamese war and would not be available for any international naval task force to be formed by the western powers.

In some ways, however, the movement of the carrier out of the Mediterranean underscored the growing appraisal within the Administration that the immediate threat of military conflict in the Middle East was diminishing. It also reflected the general lack of military concern here over the movement of additional Soviet naval ships into the Mediterranean.

The Intrepid was in the Mediterranean on the way to Southeast Asia last week when the Middle East crisis seemed to be approaching a point of armed conflict. The carrier was temporarily held in the Mediterranean, supplementing two other attack carriers in the U.S. Sixth Fleet, as the Administration anxiously watched to see whether the crisis might deteriorate into war.

The immediate threat of conflict seemed to have abated over the weekend following a decision of the Israeli government to continue to rely for the time being on political action rather than on military measures to lift the Egyptian blockade.

However, the Israeli decision was predicated on the assumption that steps would be taken by the western powers to remove the blockade if diplomatic efforts through the United Nations failed. The Israeli government made the decision after receiving reassurances from the U.S.

Within the Administration there was a general inclination to minimize both the military and diplomatic significance of the projected movement of 10 Soviet naval ships from the Black Sea into the Mediterranean.

Arab Army Stronger At Strait

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
CAIRO—Iraq began airlifting troops to the United Arab Republic yesterday to join a multinational Arab force that is to watch over the Strait of Tiran, reliable Arab sources reported.

The force is expected to include troops from Algeria, Kuwait and Sudan, as well as Iraq and the U.A.R. It will be deployed at Sharm El Sheikh, the focal point of the U.A.R.'s preparations to enforce its blockade of the strait to all Israeli shipping and vessels carrying strategic cargoes to Israel, the sources said.

The Egyptian coastal strongpoint dominating the strait, Sharm El Sheikh is considered a likely target for any effort to break the blockade by force.

But positioning of troops from the four other Arab countries there would greatly complicate diplomatic reactions to an attack.

Having drawn up its own forces at Sharm El Sheikh and along its border with Israel, the U.A.R. moved on several fronts to internationalize its confrontation with Israel in the wake of Tuesday's signing of an Egyptian-Jordanian defense pact.

The Arab informants, who declined to be identified for publication, said the two governments envisaged a quick all-out assault on Israel if the pact should be invoked.

New York State Lottery on Today

(c) N.Y. Times News Service NEW YORK—The state of New York goes into the lottery business officially today, selling $1 sweepstakes tickets to support education.

The first tickets will go on sale in nearly 4,000 hotels, motels, and banks throughout the state, more than 1,000 of them in New York City alone. Little excitement or anxiety was visible at the outlets yesterday as they prepared for their new customers.

All the outlets will keep 5 cents from every ticket sale for their handling expenses. A new lottery will be run every month. The drawing for prize winners will be held in the following month.

The state is hoping to sell 30 million tickets a month, or $360 million worth a year. Since under the lottery law, prizes are limited to 30 per cent of the take, or $108 million, and administrative expenses limited to 15 per cent, or $54 million, there would be a $198 million profit for school aid. However, state officials concede that these are little more than hopeful "guesstimates." At the monthly drawings, there will be 240 prizes totalling $300,000 for every $1 million worth of tickets sold—a grand prize tier of 15 awards ranging from $100,000 down to $5,000 and a consolation tier of 225 awards ranging from $1,000 down to $150.

If the state realizes its $30 million monthly estimate, this would mean 7,200 prizes a month totalling $9 million.

In addition, at the suggestion of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, a new once-a-year superprize of $250,000 has been added to the bonanza along with several other annual bonus prizes in an effort to lure more players to the lottery and heighten its suspense.

The superprize and bonus winners will be drawn at the end of the state's fiscal year on March 31 from a special "kitty" of nonwinners in the monthly drawings. None of the persons in this kitty will know they are in the running for the superprize until the annual drawing.

Dishonored Army Officer's Record Clear - Finally

WASHINGTON (AP) — They cleared the record yesterday of Maj. Marcus A. Reno who fought at "Little Big Horn" and whose body has lain for 78 years in an unmarked grave.

An Army Board said the conditions under which Reno found himself back in 1880, when he was dishonorably discharged, "were not conducive to producing 'plaster saints'."

Secretary of the Army Stanley Resor ordered the adjutant general of the Army to correct the records of Reno to show that he was honorably discharged on April 1, 1880.

It means that the body of Reno, now in a Washington cemetery, may be moved to a national cemetery.

Crippen

Mead has supported by resolution, as a member of the local Salvation Army board, the transfer of the $250,000 for the benefit of children in Ivy House in Philadelphia. He has refused to join Lay and Mead in their move for intervention.

Despite his resignation, Crippen said he still believes the Hoffman Home should be improved. He said the Salvation Army should join with the Hoffman trustees in providing the best possible program for Warren County children. He wants the facility used for still undetermined programs under the new Mental Health and Mental Retardation Act and used as a close-to-home environment for children who respond best to group care.

Mead said he thought the court should be petitioned to release the Hoffman estate funds to be used for increased foster home care. He stated this reflected current thinking on the state level.

Crippen noted that during the past eight years the state has vacillated on child-care programs. At one time the emphasis was on good foster home care, this changing to counties using children's homes or group-care facilities as well. The commissioners some years ago, when the state recommended closing down the Hoffman Home, sought its conversion into a facility for retarded children, but the officials were too small. The thinking again has changed toward a smaller, homier atmosphere.

Asked if yesterday's move reflected a trend and that he would resign from other programs of which he is chairman or a board member, Crippen reiterated his statement that the May 16 primary results protested, collectively, all programs which he and Lay supported during the past four years and accepted those proposed by Mead.

He said that unless he sees public indications to the contrary, he is merely responding to the people expressing their opinions. Crippen stated he would continue to hold the chair as a commissioner of the Rouse Estate until the building program is completed this year.

It was generally assumed that the movement was intended as a diplomatic show of force but even on this point there was some doubt, based on the timing of the Soviet request to the Turkish government for authorization to move the ships through the straits.

The Soviet request to the Turkish government was reported to have been made on May 22, shortly before Nasser announced his forces were re-establishing military control over the Strait of Tiran. Unless the current crisis is the result of a concerted Soviet-Egyptian plot — and American officials remain highly skeptical that this is the case — it seemed doubtful to give diplomatic or military support to Cairo's moves against Israel.

There was some belief in high Administration quarters that the Soviet movement was nothing more than a routine replacement and supplementing of the 10- to 20-ship task force keep the Hoffman Home open. Should the state decide to permit the home to stay open without the proposed improvement program going into effect this year, the board must replace Lucille Baxter, matron at the home, whose resignation is effective August 1.

State health officials had refused to approve the home until certain corrections were made, most of them contingent on the improvement program at the institution. Tentative approval has supposedly been accorded the plans by the Department of Labor and Industry.

challenge the blockade, the U.S. obviously is running into diplomatic difficulties in persuading maritime nations, reportedly numbering about 15, to join in such an effort. In view of the Soviet move, it is feared, there may be even greater reluctance among the maritime nations to be drawn into what they might fear might develop into an East-West confrontation.

Nixon Declines To Comment on Crisis (C) N.Y. Times News Service PHILADELPHIA — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon declined yesterday to criticize Johnson Administration policies in dealing with the Arab-Israeli confrontation or even to make any suggestions of his own.

At this time it is essential, he said, "that the United States speaks with one voice instead of several if we are to avoid war" in the Middle East.

Study Plan to Include Drug Costs in Medicare

(c) N.Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare named a special panel yesterday to make recommendations within six months on whether to include prescription drug costs in the Medicare program.

"For many older Americans the cost of needed drugs prescribed by a physician is a heavy burden, representing 15 to 20 per cent of their medical care costs," Secretary John W. Gardner said in announcing the study group.

But he said the task force, made up of high officers of the department, would have no prior commitment to recommend for or against the inclusion of prescription drugs. The drug costs of Medicare beneficiaries are presently covered only for persons in the hospital at the time the drugs were used. New legislation would be needed to broaden the coverage.

Gardner appointed Dr. Philip R. Lee, the assistant secretary for health and scientific affairs, to the chairmanship of the task force.

At a news conference following the announcement, Lee said the major areas to be studied would include the relative merits of buying drugs by generic or by brand names; the impact that various proposed methods of drug purchasing would have on costs, quality of patient care, doctors, pharmacists, the drug industry and government.

Also studied will be the existing patterns of drug prescription by physicians as well as patterns of drug use and expense to the patient. Many of the other economic factors in the use of prescription drugs will also be considered.

Yesterday's appointment is in answer to President Johnson's directive in January that the department look into the merits of expanding Medicare to include drugs.

In his statement, Gardner said it possibly may take years of work, including laboratory research and clinical trials to answer some of the questions.

Among the thorny items is whether generic name drugs can be considered equivalent to brand name drugs in their effects on the patient. Ordinarily, brand name drugs are considerably more expensive than generic drugs based on the same chemicals.

There has been much publicity recently over the spread in prices consumers pay for prescription drugs. Tuesday, for example, the Medical Letter on Drugs and Therapeutics, a news letter for physicians, reported a survey showing that some drug products sold for 30 times as much as others.

Named to the task force with Lee are Dean W. Coston, deputy under secretary of Health, Education and Welfare; Lisle C. Carter Jr., William Gorham and James P. Kelly, all assistant secretaries; Robert M. Ball, commissioner of the Social Security Administration; Dr. James L. Goddard, commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration; Joseph H. Meyers, acting commissioner of the Welfare Administration, and Dr. William H. Stewart, Surgeon General of the Public Health Service.

PARIS (AP)—A charter plane carrying 18 U.S. congressmen, 9 congressional committee staff members, 15 Department of Transportation officials and 13 Army and Air Force officers flew into Paris yesterday for a six-day visit to the French capital.

A Department of Defense spokesman said the official visitors were here to see the Paris Air Show, which they would visit Friday and Saturday. The rest of the program was not disclosed.

Eastern Airlines, the charter company, and Defense Department officials as well as the U. S. Embassy refused to release a list of the names of those on the flight.

"We have strict orders from the Defense Department not to give it out," an embassy spokesman said.

Lt. Col. Donald S. Floyd, traveling with the Defense Department delegation of officers, asked an Associated Press newsmen to get out of the Salon d'Honneur at Le Bourget Airport where the congressmen were received before they went to their hotels in 18 chauffeur-driven cars.

A spokesman for Eastern Airlines said, "I cannot give you a list of passengers because this is a private charter flight." Asked who was footing the bill, he said, "Every passenger is paying his own way. The cost was $282 a person."

Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, said, "There's no mystery about it. I have been delegated here by the Senate Armed Services Committee. The committee is paying for the trip. I am here on official business."

Rep. Samuel N. Friedel, D-Md., a member of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, said, "I am here on committee business. The committee is paying for me. I am paying for my wife."

Traveling with the congressmen, Transportation Department officials and officers were officials of the Douglas Aircraft Corp. and Eastern Airlines executives and their guests.

"But they're paying guests," said the airlines spokesman. In all there were 116 persons on the plane, including 46 non-paying airlines personnel, some of whom acted as staff on the flight.

A list of the visitors, made available by other sources, included besides Sen. Young and Rep. Friedel included Rep. J. Irving Whalley, R-Pa., of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

According to one Eastern Airlines spokesman, there were 94 paying passengers. At $282 apiece that would make the total revenue for the flight $26,508. The spokesman said he did not know whether this covered costs. A spokesman for an international airline said a Boeing 707, or a DC8, both smaller than the DC8-61, that was used, could be chartered for Washington - Paris - Washington for "about $30,000."

The Eastern charter flight returns to Washington June 5.

Navy Ordered to Study Plans For Battleship

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara authorized the Navy yesterday to spend $800,000 for exploratory demobbing of the battleship New Jersey to see how much it would cost to ready it for service off Vietnam.

A Pentagon spokesman said McNamara signed a memo to Secretary of the Navy Paul H. Nitze authorizing the action—the initial step toward the possible recommissioning of a U.S. battleship for the first time in about nine years.

Highway Deaths Reached 608

CHICAGO (AP) — Traffic accidents killed 608 persons in the nation during the long Memorial Day holiday weekend, a record for the holiday. The four-day toll compared with 560 traffic deaths during a nonholiday period of identical length two weeks ago.

Despite its record-shattering proportion, the holiday toll this year remained well below the 650 to 750 deaths which the National Safety Council estimated in advance might occur in the 102-hour period.

One other lead, involving a car of the same description in a hit and run crash about 3:28 p.m. Monday also proved negative and police said the two incidents were in no way related.

FBI agents, earlier quoted as saying the bandit was an amateur, said Tuesday while the armed robber's technique was not a bit unusual, they were convinced he was not an amateur bank robber.

According to the FBI, the robber had apparently been in the bank before Monday's holdup since he appeared to know the operation there. They said he went directly to the fourth teller's cage, in a row of nine that housed the branch office's payroll operation which had the largest amount of money.

ABOUT 35,000 MEN

Hanoi Calls Up Three Divisions for Fighting

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. intelligence officers expressed belief yesterday that President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam has recently committed all or parts of three new divisions to the Vietnam war. At full strength they would total about 35,000 men.

If the assessment is borne out and these troops are reinforcements rather than replacements for Communists felled in battle, enemy ranks in the south might rise appreciably above the estimated level of 286,000.

That could mean pressure for more American servicemen in Vietnam. Though conventional warfare marks much of the action in and around the demilitarized zone, the Communists retrain guerrilla tactics and experts estimate it takes anywhere from 4 to 12 defenders to cope with one guerrilla.

At present there are 453,000 GIs in Vietnam, mainstay of allied forces totalling 1,113,000. Neither South Vietnam nor the other allies seem willing or able to commit more men.

U.S. military leaders have been warning for some time that a time of testing is coming soon for the allied side.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland warned that bigger and bloodier battles are just around the corner.

One theory holds that the North Vietnamese have about concluded an experimental phase in which tactics were tested and discarded as the Hanoi high command sought an effective way to deal with the tough American troops and their massive artillery and air power.

The war undeniably has mushroomed since the first of the year. In the two northern corps areas alone, more than 10,000 Americans have been killed or wounded. This is more than 10 per cent of the total number of Americans assigned to combat roles, as opposed to clerks, supply men and other support troops.

Nineteen Marine infantry battalions and 12 U.S. Army battalions essentially face the problem of dealing with an enemy force that may run as high as 63 North Vietnamese battalions. A more conservative estimate puts the number at 45 battalions. U.S. battalions usually are about half again as large as North Vietnamese units.

A large number of U.S. troops are tied down in static defense roles protecting their bases and lines of communication.

The U.S. Command has listed three North Vietnamese divisions in and around the demilitarized zone. It estimated that strength of these units at about 35,000 troops.

Strike is Called For Today at Window Firm

JAMESTOWN — A strike at Hopes Windows, Inc., was scheduled to begin this morning, according to a union official's statement late last night.

Members of the International Association of Machinists, Bridge and Structural Ornamental Ironworkers voted yesterday to reject a new company proposal. The old contract expired at midnight last night. A meeting between union leaders and management has been scheduled, but union leaders said last night that they would not comment further on where or when such a meeting might take place.

Several other contracts between Jamestown area construction companies and the Ironworkers, Plumbers and Steamfitters union also expired at midnight. Neither management nor union officials would make any comments when contacted late last night.

Projects in the Jamestown area which could be halted if new contracts are not signed are the new Art Metal plant on Baker st., ext., in the town of Busti, the Science and Engineering Building at James town Community College, and the $3 million expansion program at the municipal light plant on Steele st.

President Holds Mideast Talks With Cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson discussed the Middle East crisis at a meeting of his Cabinet yesterday but the White House continued its policy of public reticence on the subject.

Press secretary George Christian reported that the discussion was continued over the luncheon table with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Christian said Rusk noted that this country's main efforts at easing the tension between Israel and its Arab neighbors are concentrated now in the United Nations Security Council. In addition, this government is in touch with other countries through regular diplomatic channels, Christian said.

In declining to give details of the discussion, Christian said this country's position has been stated by both the President and by U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg in the United Nations.

Man Charged in Double Murder

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Cecil Jones, shying away from cameras and shuffling along in oversized shoes, was charged with murder yesterday in the shooting of two former co-workers.

Two counts of murder were brought against Jones, 54-year-old welder from Lambertville, N.J., at a preliminary arraignment before Louis J. Hamill, deputy coroner of Allegheny County.

Hamill, after reading the charges, ordered Jones held in the county jail to await a hearing June 6.

GEN. DAYAN RECALLED

Israel Defense Officials Change

(c) N.Y. Times News Service (Parts of the following dispatch were censored in Israel)

TEL AVIV — Proposals for a cabinet reshuffle were discussed at a midnight session last night in the Dan Hotel on the Tel-Aviv seashore.

Details were not officially revealed but they are said to include the transfer of the defense portfolio from Premier Levi Eshkol to Gen. Moshe Dayan, the former chief of staff.

Another report that was not officially confirmed was that Abba Eban is slated to be succeeded as foreign minister by Brig. Yigal Allon, now Minister of Labor.

David Ben-Gurion, the former premier and defense minister will not join the cabinet. Eshkol rejected proposals by three parties that the 81-year-old veteran be named Defense Minister. Ben-Gurion had agreed to serve under Eshkol despite a bitter feud between them.

The extraordinary session was called shortly after the 56-member secretariat of Mapai, the ruling party, met at party headquarters across the street from the hotel and empowered Eshkol to broaden his coalition government.

Another opposition party, Gahal is expected to be invited to have two leaders joined the cabinet as ministers without portfolio. The enlarged cabinet would control 110 of the 120 Knesset (Parliament) votes. Eban has been criticized by the "Hawks" in his party after his return from his diplomatic mission to Washington, London and Paris. His critics said that the mission was a blunder and that since then Nasser has strengthened his military position by reinforcements from Yemen and his political position by a defense pact with Jordan.

The "Hawks" believe a clash with Egypt is inevitable. They said the delay would make it more costly in the end. However, some political leaders expressed resentment over the proposed ouster of Eban, and his fate is by no means certain.

Dayan's proposed appointment has been opposed by the Ahdut Haavodah Party, a left-wing group aligned with Eshkol's Mapai.

If Eshkol were to give up the defense portfolio, they argued, it should go to their representative, Allon, a former commander of the palmach, the commando force during Israel's war of independence in 1948.

Most political leaders appeared to feel that Dayan, who commanded the forces that swept the Egyptian army out of Sinai in less than a week in 1956, was more competent for the post.

Bail of $250 was revoked in the case of Raphael P. Kenel, 44, Dewittville, when the court held the bail amount "was nowhere near sufficient". The case, involved damages estimated at $2,600 to window fixtures, shoes, and equipment at Brown Bilt Shoe Store, 14 E. Third st. Jamestown. Kenel was remanded to jail on a charge of causing injury to property.

William E. Katta, 21, of Dunkirk and Edward J. Vacanti, 19, Fredonia have been permitted to withdraw guilty pleas to first degree rape charges and plead guilty to reduced charges of third degree assault following an agreement by Robert J. Sullivan, district attorney, and Judge Edwin G. O'Connor. The decision was made "in the interests of justice" after a third man William F. Bailey, 20, Fredonia, had pleaded innocent to the rape charge and entered a guilty plea to the misdemeanor assault charge Wednesday during the trial of his case.

Thomas M. Barclay, 30, Oil City, charged with stealing a town of Busti police car June 10, 1966, paid a $500 fine after pleading guilty in Chautauque County Monday to a charge of petty larceny reduced from first degree grand larceny. Barclay had been free on $1,000 bail.

ONLY WAYS TO RAISE IT

No Proposals To Spend Tax

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The head of an advisory tax committee said yesterday his group made recommendations only on how to raise state money—not spend it.

Dr. David H. Kurtzman said his committee made no attempt to justify the size of Gov. Shafer's proposed record budget of $1.86 billion.

He said the 11-man committee was not equipped to analyze state needs, and added the group "assumed the estimate of the budget's needs would be subject to review by the legislature."

Shafer asked the committee to recommend a method for raising $294 million in additional revenue. After a study, it suggested a one per cent income tax.

Kurtzman, chancellor emeritus of the University of Pittsburgh, said, "Considering the amount of money to be raised we could either expand the sales tax and eliminate some of the current exemptions or go to the income tax. It seemed to us that the income tax was the least objectionable measure particular."

ly as far as the lower income groups were concerned."

Students Take Up Cause For Professor

Fredonia College students are seeking to keep Dr. James C. Lewis, English professor, who has resigned effective Sept. 1, 1967. The students claim the college administration secretly forced Lewis to resign.

The six students, who preferred to remain unidentified, said Tuesday petitions had been circulated on the campus in the hope of forestalling the resignation of Dr. Lewis.

The group said the administration had pressured Lewis into resigning because he was too "palsywalsy" with students and was identified with "radical" causes such as an anti-war demonstration.

Dr. Lewis confirmed that he submitted his resignation, but declined additional comment.

Dr. Oscar E. Lanford, college president, issued a statement that "it is not the college policy to discuss the resignation of individual faculty members with anyone."

Lewis, whose contract was to have expired in June 1968, came to the college three years ago after teaching at the University of British Columbia.

Soviet Destroyer Still With Fleet

By NEIL SHEEHAN

(C) N.Y. Times News Service U.S.S. AMERICA — Vice Adm. William L. Martin, commander of the United States Sixth Fleet, asserted yesterday that Soviet vessels closely monitoring his fleet's movements "frequently endanger our ships."

The Admiral made the statement as a Soviet destroyer escort, No. 215 of the Soviet Navy, continued to shadow the America, an aircraft carrier, for the fourth day in a row.

So far, there have been no incidents like those that occurred in the Sea of Japan earlier this month, when Soviet destroyers twice bumped against American destroyers.

The entire long-range striking force of the Sixth Fleet — the carriers America and Saratoga, the cruisers Little Rock and Galveston and their 10 accompanying destroyers — is standing by in the Sea of Crete ready to intervene in the Middle East if Washington so decides.

A third carrier, the Intrepid, temporarily placed under Admiral Martin's authority, is steaming in the central Mediterranean, to the southwest. Admiral Martin said during a visit to the America from his flagship, the Little Rock.

The Intrepid, detached in the Mediterranean last week while on her way to Vietnam, was previously reported to be in the Cyprus area, closer to Israel and the United Arab Republic.

Martin and other officers made it clear that in speaking of danger he was discussing past incidents not involving the Soviet destroyer escort now tracking the fleet.

The destroyer escort, gray and low-slung, has been careful to observe the courtesies of the sea.

The America was not flying her planes, which were undergoing maintenance, so the Soviet crewmen could observe scores of sailors in bathing trunks sunbathing on the flight deck.

In the past, Martin said, Soviet vessels created dangerous situations "by getting in our formations and coming much closer to our ships than they get to each other."

"I have had the occasion to ask them to leave the area," said the admiral, a stern-faced man with chiseled features and bushy eyebrows.

The last occasion, he added, was about a month ago. It involved a Soviet trawler that had intruded among elements of the fleet that were conducting amphibious exercises with French ships off Corsica.

The admiral said he had transmitted radio messages in Russian and in English cautioning the intruding commander that he was causing a dangerous situation.

"I was assuming he was listening," the admiral said. "Those trawlers are intelligence collectors."

The trawlers are equipped with elaborate equipment to monitor communications among American ships.

A message was also sent to the trawler in international maritime code by signal lamp, the admiral said. The Soviet ship acknowledged part of the message and then left the area, he added.

Warrenite Hurt When Horse Falls

Gregg Springer, 26, of 31 Miller Hill rd., remained in fair condition last night at WCA Hospital in Jamestown, N.Y., after a horseback riding accident Tuesday.

A hospital official said there "may be slight improvement" in Springer's condition.

Springer was taken to Warren General Hospital after the accident at about 5 p.m. Monday. A report from the Warren hospital indicated he may have suffered a skull fracture and damage to both lungs. The horse he was riding rolled on top of him after he fell off the animal. No further details were available.

The youth was taken to WCA Hospital by the North Warren Ambulance at 7:30 p.m. Monday, according to the Warren General Hospital report.

Not a Time to Stop Learning

The warming sun hails the coming of another summer season. For a large percentage of our population—our young people—summer means just one thing, the end of school.

Every student, whether this summer means lazy days at the old swimming hole, a summer job, baseball in the school yard, or the beginning of a career, should keep in mind one thing about the world around him—it is changing more quickly than we can imagine.

Academic training can give an invaluable store of knowledge of our history and our heritage, of human relations, of technical matters with concrete commercial value. It can give preparation to meet the world as it exists on the day of graduation.

But the day after, the week after, the year after, new knowledge, new reactions, new circumstances will pile up. This summer season may mark the end of school days for three months or for the rest of a person's life, but it does not mark an end to the need for learning and growing in order to keep up with and contribute to the fast paced world around us.

So, find the fun of summer, let it bring exhilaration, refreshment and the perception to find knowledge and understanding in the blooming of a butterfly and the flame of sunrise as well as in the schoolroom, library or laboratory. Successful living must be based on a constant enlargement of all kinds of knowledge.

Council Helps Urban Renewal Plans

Long-awaited passage of housing, building, plumbing and fire codes for Warren Borough have become a reality, thanks to unanimous action taken this week at an adjourned session of the local council.

The codes, essential for implementing urban renewal programs in the community, had been ignored by the town fathers for some time. But more recently the council tackled the issue with vigor and has now opened the door for necessary developments.

The Liberty street project to provide more parking facilities is number one. Let's keep the ball rolling.

Be Sure Your Child Can 'Pull'

Between seven and nine thousand persons will lose their lives by drowning this year, we are reminded by Paul Steinkamp, water safety chairman of the Warren County Chapter, American Red Cross. An alarming figure.

Furthermore a large percentage of these drownings will happen a few feet from safety—a fall off a dock, a tumble out of a boat, slipping into a farm pond, a drop off in the river, and so forth.

Mr. Steinkamp points out that swimming is one's ability to "pull" himself or herself through water and urges all parents to make it a must this summer in seeing their child enroll in one of the learn to swim programs.

He says this way you will be giving them life's most important pull—a pull to safety!

Every Plane Has a Ceiling

DENVER, Colorado—The big swivel chair swings. The man in it doesn't. He's a crew cut with a pleasant smile and sharp teeth. His name is Lewis W. Dymond. Twenty-nine years ago he took dead aim on success and has never altered his aim nor blinked an eye.

He sits behind the desk of president of Frontier Airlines at Stapleton Airport. The runway is one mile in the sky. Frontier is currently driving the world of aviation crazy because it is growing faster than the big four: United, American, Eastern and TWA. Five years ago, Frontier was a pile of historic junk, flipping over high mountains to find small airports.

Dymond was a high school kid in St. Petersburg, Florida, broke and scared. His father, an optometrist, died when Lew was eight. At 18, the kid found a new father when he went to work for National Airlines. The president and owner was Ted Baker. He liked the red-headed boy.

The new employee cleaned aircraft ashtrays, vacuumed rugs and removed paint from the outside of Lodestars until the color ran up his arm. The pay was $60 a month, and Dymond had a mother to support. Baker was as tough as steel, but not quite as hard as a Dymond. The kid worked long hours and asked for promotions.

In eight months, he went from aircraft cleaner to station agent. Three months more, he was station manager at Pensacola. Another four and he was assistant manager at Jacksonville. Another month and he was manager at New Orleans. Baker watched him as a cobra studies a mongoose.

The kid wanted to be a dispatcher. He studied four volumes of federal regulations in three days, took the test, and passed. In five years, Ted Baker had "adopted" the boy and brought him to Miami as chief dispatcher for National Airlines.

He worked Dymond to death, but couldn't grind him down. In 1945, Lew became assistant vice president. Washing planes was only seven years behind him. The young man talked fast, smoked fast and fought to expand National Airlines into a major carrier. He also bought a small plane and taught himself to fly, even though his work was at a desk. In time, Dymond became a captain and the government gave him an instrument rating.

When the pilots went on strike, Dymond stood beside Baker to break it. He was an executive all day and flew airplanes at night. Later, he enrolled at the University of Miami and studied law in the evening. He graduated at the top of his class.

In 10 years, the kid moved from $60 a month to $15,000 a year and he was underpaid. He married, had children, but kept his eye on the high goals. In 1962, Bud Maytag, owner of Frontier Airlines, sold it to the Goldfield Corporation and bought National Airlines. Baker was bowing out to a younger, more vigorous man. Another one, Lew Dymond, was afraid he would soon be unemployed.

One day he flew to New York on business. The man in the seat beside him said he was Richard C. Pistell, chairman of Goldfield. "How would you like to put Frontier together for me?" he said. Dymond said he wouldn't. He'd prefer to remain at National as chief of operations under Maytag. But the new owner would come in with his own team of executives.

Back in Miami, Baker called the executives in and announced that he was selling National. "I tried to get contracts for you fellows," he said, "but I could only get one for myself." That included his "adopted" son. So Lew visited Mr. Pistell. The offer was $35,000 a year and an option to buy 25,000 shares of Frontier stock at $2.50 a share. The stuff sold for $1.80.

Dymond took the job. Baker called him an ingrate. They fought. Ted tried to cancel Dymond's pension of $200 a month after 23 years of work. Then he softened and said: "Go, Lew. You'll do all right."

In Denver, Lew Dymond found he had 22 sedentary DC-3s and 6 Convairs. The line covered 10 Western states and earned a profit. Dymond took a look at Denver, and Denver took a look at Dymond.

"Hold on tight for action," he said. He bought prop-jet planes, pure jets, and watched business jump 23 per cent the first year. The next year it leaped 51 per cent. The stock began a climb from $2.50 a share to $38. A few weeks ago, Frontier absorbed Central Airlines. It also acquired a non-stop run from Denver to St. Louis.

Dymond's new contract calls for $80,000 a year. His stock is now worth $2,000,000. Every plane has a ceiling. No one knows what Dymond's is...

'Smarts' Dislike Johnson

(c) N. Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON — The fashionable political wisdom of the day has it that "the intellectuals" dislike President Johnson. The President himself thinks so. This naturally raises the question who are "the intellectuals"?

Here the whole cozy game collapses. Nine of ten people, for example, believe that "the intellectuals" are Arthur Schlesinger Jr. Asked to name 10 intellectuals, the man in the street — don't confuse matters further by asking who he is — is hard put to go on after listing Schlesinger and Hugh Hefner. Occasionally a young mother will name Dr. Spock, an alienated youth will name Paul Goodman or Allen Ginsburg, and a policeman will list J. Edgar Hoover, but it is clear that to most people "the intellectuals" are hardly more than phantoms.

From close observation, however, it is possible not only to confirm the widespread existence of "the intellectuals" but to draw a composite portrait of the group member.

First of all, he looks nothing at all like Arthur Schlesinger, who wears shell-rimmed glasses, bow ties and dark suits with vests. "The intellectual" looks much more like President Johnson, though 20 pounds lighter and slightly stooped. He wears a necktie in deliberate bad taste and an off-the-rack suit with baggy trouser knees, and smells of smoke.

He is married to a woman who wears her hair in a bun and drinks gin. He himself drinks wine in company, but secretly belts away Scotch whiskey. (Never bourbon.) Politically, he is fascinated by Robert F. Kennedy, whom he fears because he says, "he lacks Jack's intellectual qualities."

Outside the shop, he spends much of his time writing letters to such journals as Commentary, the New York Review of Books and the New Republic. His letters denounce the imbecility of the letter written in the previous issue by the author of the book which he demolished with a devastating review in the issue before that.

Under his mattress there is a copy of Playboy, "Fanny Hill" is proudly displayed in the living-room book shelves. He drives a four-year-old Chevrolet. His house contains one room which he decorated himself in bright orange or royal blue. He goes to foreign movies, but only if they have subtitles. This gives him a chance to complain that the translations destroyed the essence of the dialogue.

When not writing letters, he is hard pressed to keep up with intellectual fashion trends, for his is a hazardous profession from which he may be abruptly bumped if caught with out-of-season opinions. Let him wander on record with the thought that Ernest Hemingway was not a second-rate writer or that "macabre" is a piece of schlock, and the reviewer of his next book will use his error to club him into insensibility.

His great fear is that he will awake some morning to find himself reclassified as a "pseudo-intellectual" or, worse, as a "so-called intellectual," and he must discipline himself rigorously to avoid the fall. Thus, he must denounce Time Magazine without reading it, criticize the most entertaining musicals on Broadway without visiting it and, in general, spend so much time reading to stay informed of what is so meretricious that it must not be read, seen or visited that he has little time for thinking.

It is worth the labor, however, for "the intellectual," though his numerical strength is small, wields mighty powers through his influence on public opinion. This is because he talks a great deal and because, being an intellectual, he is thought to be wise even when dressed in rented opinions.

The obvious thing about "the intellectual," of course, is that he is not very intellectual. Nevertheless, he is the person who dislikes President Johnson and whose dislike hurts the President.

On the other hand, there are a number of intellectuals in this country, and whether they dislike the president or not is unknown. This is because of their occupational habit of not using their mouths when their heads are idle. From them the President can probably count on a reasoned judgment.

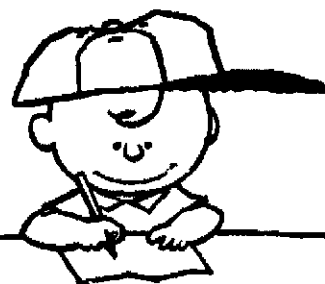

From that powerful caricature group, "the intellectuals," the best he can hope for is a sudden shift in thought fashions.

Soviet Has U.S. Over Barrel

(Editor's Note—From the background of four trips to the Near East in the last 10 years and three trips to the Soviet, Drew Pearson writes this column on U.S.-Soviet-Israeli relations.)

WASHINGTON — President Johnson now faces the toughest decision he has ever faced in foreign affairs and one of the toughest decisions of his life.

He has to decide between the Near East and the Far East, between cooperation with Russia or another cold war with Russia.

The two alternatives go hand in hand. For Russia today is the only country with enough power over President Nasser to make him compromise on the Straits of Tiran. And without access through these straits, Israel is certain to fight.

The message on these alternatives has come from Moscow loud and clear. Couched in the hard, technical language of diplomacy, the message warns that the Soviet line is now "commensurate retaliation along the escalatory scale."

This means that for every escalation of the war in Vietnam, Russia will match it with similar escalation of its own in Berlin, North Korea, or the Near East. We are so widely extended that Moscow can pick any one or all of these places for escalation.

As the first step in carrying out this policy, the Kremlin has rebuffed all overtures from Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson to talk about an anti-missile agreement. It has also taken no steps to implement the Soviet-American Consular Treaty.

Russian reasoning behind this new aloofness is fairly simple. It has been explained to the State Department in dispatches from Ambassador Thompson in Moscow. And the preliminary stages were explained to me when I was in Moscow in the winter of 1965.

One month earlier, on Feb. 7, 1965, the United States had begun its policy of bombing North Vietnam. It chose Feb. 7 to launch that policy despite the fact that Premier Kosygin had arrived in Hanoi on Feb. 6.

The State Department later learned that on Feb. 6 he had tried to persuade Ho Chi Minh to make peace with the United States. But one day after Kosygin broached this subject, the United States pulled the rug right out from under his peace efforts by bombing the north.

The Chinese were jubilant. They love to see the Russians embarrassed; especially so in this case, because Kosygin had stopped in Peking en route to Hanoi and urged the Chinese to pressure North Vietnam toward the peace table.

Red faced, Premier Kosygin went back to Moscow. He made no more peace efforts for some time.

Meanwhile the war in Vietnam became increasingly embarrassing to the Soviet, for the following reasons:

Budget Fight in the Offing

HARRISBURG—Regardless of the tax program Governor Shafer proposes today for Pennsylvanians to underwrite the $300 million additional in his near $2 billion budget, a tough, bitter, uphill fight is in the offing.

In the first place Pennsylvanians' lawmakers, reflecting a general attitude among constituents at home, seemingly are more averse to tackling the touchy tax increase issue than at any time in recent years.

Taxes to begin with are never popular, but the feeling among many lawmakers in both Administration and anti-Administration ranks is that tax increase revulsion (and exasperation) on the part of Pennsylvanians' lawmakers is more averse to tackling the touchy tax increase issue than at any time in recent years.

Constantly spiraling taxes on the local level, again to the point of taxpayer exasperation, is one factor. Slightly tighter money and a dipping economic line that is forcing a family pinch is regarded as another factor.

The cry of the politicians and bureaucrats that "the people" want this and that problem (thus forcing expanded costs) is beginning to have a hollow and irritating ring to the taxpayers who must underwrite these "programs", about which most know little and perhaps care less (to say nothing of setting up a "clamor" in behalf of this or that program).

And yet in all of this program business there is a touch of irony in that of the $300 million increase Governor Shafer has proposed in his budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1, only about $100 million can be classified as involving programs of his own.

The remainder, some $200 million strong, is the accrued result of increased expenditures projected at the time by preceding legislatures, mandated items on which increases are falling due this year.

It is interesting to note that the top flight tax study commission named by Governor Shafer to come up with tax recommendations, proposed an income tax as the base for raising most of the needed additional income to the tune of around $200 million, in fact.

The income tax is regarded as one of the most personal, tangible types of levies that can be lowered on a taxing nog-gin. It isn't "hidden"; it's right there, to be paid directly by the taxpayer.

The sales tax on the other hand is one of those, comparatively speaking, forgotten taxes; that is, it's paid day in and day out as a part of everyday living—not one slug via a personal check. It isn't regarded as the income tax but on the other hand (from the palatable standpoint) it doesn't have the personal slug of an income tax.

This is one of the ramparts lawmakers will have to climb if they intend to follow the recommendations for an income tax for Pennsylvania's contributors.

Governor Leader found himself impaled on the income tax dilemma back in 1955 when he proposed his classified income tax, notwithstanding a spirited statewide campaign to "sell" the program via television, radio and the news media.

To his horror and the consternation of anti-sales tax Democrats he wound up with the baby of what today is Pennsylvania's sales tax program.

Mr. Shafer has his hands full in projecting to Pennsylvania's lawmakers his proposal for filling Pennsylvania's till; the question is whether the treasury in the end will be as full.

SYLVIA PORTER

Home Study Gyps

Not long ago, a trio of gypsies peddled correspondence courses in subjects ranging from jet engine mechanics to missile design drafting at costs up to $600 with guarantees of jobs with leading U.S. corporations. The "school" failed to place a single student in any paying job. Total public loss: an estimated $2 million.

Porter

In another instance, worthless correspondence courses in practical nursing were sold to women high school dropouts of limited intelligence. One woman, a $30 a week laundress who took the course at considerable financial sacrifice, landed a job in a third-rate nursing home working 12 hours a day, 6 days a week—at a salary of $31.25. Total take by this team over a 10-year period: about $3 million.

In a third scheme, it turned out that the exact same "training course," supposedly for the U.S. Civil Service, was being sold to different individuals wanting to become a law enforcement officer, a government meat inspector and a park ranger. Victims of this gyp included a 71-year-old woman who was already past compulsory civil service retirement age, and the total loss to the public amounted to nearly $1 million.

As legitimate, worthwhile home study courses have gone into a record boom, the racketeering fringe has expanded too. Just in the past three years, reports chief Postal Inspector Henry B. Montague, the number of fraudulent home study operations has quadrupled. At last count, at least one in 10 correspondence schools was granting unearned degrees. Among the many areas in which the gypsers are "specializing" today: electronics, operation of heavy equipment, real estate appraisal, jet airplane mechanics and civil service training.

If you are among the record 5,000,000 Americans who will this year enroll in some course of home study, how can you tell the worthwhile home study program from the worthless and often exorbitantly priced one? Here are valuable guidelines from the National Home Study Council in Washington:

- + NO legitimate correspondence school will or can guarantee a job after completion of its course.
- + NO accredited college or university grants degrees based on home study alone and NO body can qualify as a practical nurse through correspondence study alone.
- + Be suspicious if a correspondence school uses a high-paying job opportunity as a come-on in an advertisement and this is followed up by a high-pressure salesman who comes to your door to inform you that further training is needed to fulfill the job requirements (through the course he is peddling, naturally).
- The Federal Trade Commission is now urging the states to enact laws to regulate correspondence schools, not only to protect the public against fraudulent "diploma mills" but also to assure prospective students that correspondence schools have adequate staffs and facilities.

Meanwhile, if you have any doubt whatsoever about the value of any home study school or course you have seen advertised, check its reputation with the Better Business Bureau, Chamber of Commerce or State Department of Education. To find out what legitimate courses are available to you in the field you wish to pursue, consult a high school, college or industrial vocational guidance counselor.

Finally, you can get a list of accredited, reputable home study schools from the National Home Study Council in Washington. In the case of correspondence courses offered by colleges and universities, a similar list is available from the National University Extension Assn. at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis.

Lander Hill and Dale Garden Club Has Meet

Twenty-six members of the Hill and Dale Garden club enjoyed a tour of Mrs. Francis Lewis' gardens preceding their meeting on Wednesday. Mrs. Lewis has a perfect setting for the many wild flowers she has gathered in nearby woods and also has some from as far away as Canada and the South.

Mrs. Lavern DeVore presided at the business session and Mrs. Gerald Youngie gave the devotion, reading scripture and a poem "The Glory of Spring." Secretary's report was given by Mrs. Paul Lindell and the treasurer, Mrs. Ellisworth Wilson reported a balance of $51.80 in the treasury.

Mrs. Henry Wuesthoff, Conservation chairman, reminded the group that this is clean up, pick up and paint up time and spoke on the soil, water and air pollution. Mrs. Leland Haller was introduced as a new member.

Mrs. DeVore reported on a meeting she attended for the Jamestown General Hospital

Fair to be held on June 22. Volunteers were asked to work in a Garden Booth for two hours, and these volunteered to assist: Mrs. Ralph Abbott, Mrs. Walter Sweeney, Mrs. Clyde Arthur, Mrs. Paul Wood, Mrs. Weusthoff, Mrs. Merle Cady and Mrs. DeVore. Announcements were made of a Garden March in Erie on May 25-26 and flower show in Erie on June 21, also the Home and Garden Show in Oil City on June 8.

Mrs. Fritz Schoonover was reported a surgical patient in the Jamestown General Hospital. Mrs. Sweeney received the door prize. A discussion was held on whether we should cancel our flower show scheduled for August 31, due to the road building project between Lander and the Eisenhower school. It was decided to wait until the next meeting to decide, to see how much progress has been made on the project. The next meeting will be held in the Northwest Savings Bank Social rooms in Warren on June 28, when Mrs. Lee Hilton will demonstrate "Flower Arrangements."

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Carlstrom of Baltimore, Md. visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. Eric Larson.

Fire Levels Barn In Ludlow Vicinity

By MRS. HILDR WENSTRAN

A fire of unknown origin leveled a large barn being used as a garage, also a chicken coop on Water St., Thursday evening. The fire was noticed by a neighbor and he ran in and called the Sheffield and Kane Fire Companies, who arrived on the scene in only a matter of a few minutes. The property is owned by hunters from Cleveland and was formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Bulicz. It took three hours to fight the blaze as the wind was very strong. No damage was done to the home.

Mrs. Robert (Linnea) Olson fell and broke her left wrist at her home Thursday noon while getting off the ladder after having washed the window. She was rushed to Kane Community Hospital for treatment. She returned home Saturday where she is recuperating.

The Wildcat Park Auxiliary held their first meeting of the season Tuesday evening at the De Forest pavilion. It was housecleaning day and a number of ladies went there in the afternoon, others got there at six o'clock. The meeting started at 8 o'clock with the new president, Mrs. David Shafter, in charge. It was decided to again serve the Kendall picnic on June 17. The interior of the pavilion has been recently painted, which gives it a new look. Hostesses were: Miss Susie Krantz, Mrs. Sam Manfrej and Mrs. Frank Nelson.

Mrs. Beulah Carlson and brother, Howard Preston, returned home Thursday after visiting Miss Grace Mills at Middlesex, Pa. for five days. Sunday guests at Mrs. Carlson's home were Roy Preston and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Preston and daughter Susan of Erie.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Larson and children, Laurie Lee and Bradley of Kokomo, Ind., arrived at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Larson last Friday. Mr. Larson returned on Sunday but the family will spend a vacation with her parents in Kane and at the Larsons in Ludlow.

Mrs. Anna Bergquist was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Benson in Warren on Wednesday.

Miss Susie Krantz was hostess at the Wednesday afternoon meeting of the Potomac United with Miss Tillie Olson as leader of the lesson. There will not be any meetings for the next few months.

Mr. Gustav Olson was taken to Hamot Hospital in Erie on Sunday. He was accompanied by his sister, Miss Ellen Olson, R. N.

Miss Becky Anderson has arrived home after finishing her freshman year at Clarion State College. Her mother, Mrs. Ward Anderson, went to the college and accompanied her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Knight spent Wednesday in Shippensburg, Pa., where they were guests at a birthday party given in honor of Mrs. Donna Knight on her 71st birthday by a daughter. There were 40 guests present.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Drogowski and daughter Kathy, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jaap of Pittsburgh spent the weekend and Memorial Day at their home in Ludlow.

Mrs. Marian Lund and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tracy and two children from Jamestown, N.Y. visited Miss Rose Nelson Sunday, May 21.

Mr. and Mrs. James Markey have returned to their Ludlow home, after living in Kittanning, Pa., for several months.

Mrs. Helge (Gunhild) Nelson of Chicago, Ill., returned home a week ago. She had been at the home of her late parents for three weeks.

The Ludlow Study group met at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Larson Monday evening, May 22. The meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Frank Elge. There were two guests present, Mrs. Robert Olson of Ludlow and Mrs. Kenneth Larson of Kokomo, Ind. The program was given by Mrs. Mabelle Nelson, who showed colored slides that she took on her trip to the West Coast and Canada two years ago. They decided for the members to spend one day at Chautauqua this summer, no date set as yet. Mrs. Larson served delicious refreshments and a social evening was enjoyed by all.

The Hamilton Township Carnival, held at the De Forest Pavilion in Wildcat Park Saturday afternoon from 2-7 proved to be a big success. There was a good attendance throughout the whole afternoon. The highlight of the afternoon was the "hayride" for the children by Mrs. Betty Straneva of Wetmore driving the tractor that pulled the hay wagon. Virgil Nelson, Pat Walters and Mrs. Neil Davidson had charge of selling tickets. Mrs. Virginia Zeeder attended the booths of games. Mrs. Marge Walters attended the kitchen and sold food during the day, and many got their supper later in the day. The teachers held a bake sale and the bazaar table was sold out. Donations for prizes were given by merchants from Kane, Ludlow and Sheffield. Many door prizes were given away, too numerous to give all names. Joe Kasaback and Dean Walters called off the winning numbers. There were 60 workers who all deserve thanks for their untiring work. Mrs. Neil Davidson and Mrs. Dan Bires was in charge of the affair and had worked weeks and weeks planning for the event. Even the weatherman cooperated and held off the rain until quitting time. Everyone had a wonderful time.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Bernal Connolly spent last week visiting in Cleveland, Ohio.

Woodrow Peterson of Cleveland, Ohio has been a visitor at the home of his father, Ben Peterson this last week. During this week they visited the mother, Mrs. Ben (Anna) Peterson, at the Samuel Dixon State Hospital in So. Mountain, Pa. They report that she looks fine and is feeling good, and determined to get well.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lucia who have for the past four years taken care of the old cemetery on the East side of town, as a Scouting project, deserve many thanks of appreciation from the people of the community for their faithful service.

Children of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Nelson who came to spend Memorial Day at the family home are: Dr. and Mrs. Abraham Lieberman of St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, Mr. and Mrs. John Tenhave and three children from Syracuse, N. Y., Mrs. Emil Knipp of Schenectady, N. Y., and Vernon Nelson of Corning, N. Y.

Sunday guests at the home of Miss Rose Nelson were: Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Johnson of Erie, Mrs. Ellen Price and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Holmberg of Jamestown, N. Y.

Excerpts From Talk By Frame

EXCERPTS from Memorial Day Address by State Senator Richard C. Frame, at the Pine Grove Cemetery, Russell, Pennsylvania, on Memorial Day, May 30, 1967.

Again we meet for a remembrance of valor to commemorate in memorial the dead of all of our wars. We do this in various appropriate ways.

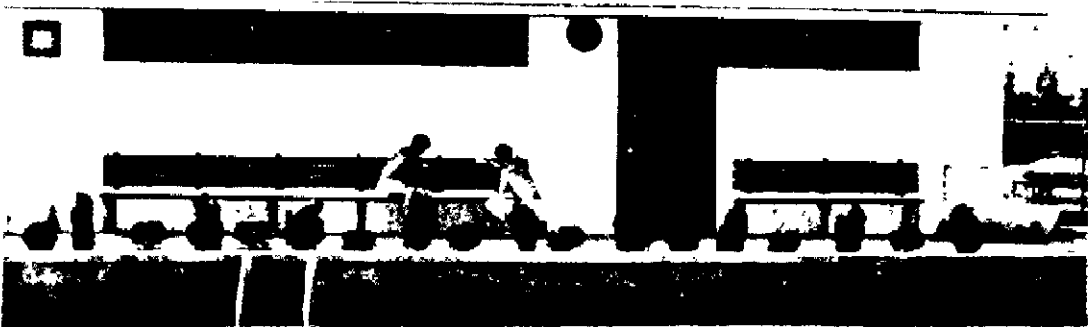

At the cemeteries along the Normandy coast in France, overlooking the beach heads, and under the shade trees at Arlington, I have stood in the midst of the uniformly arranged Stars of David and little white crosses, and asked myself what these men would say if given the power of speech at the Memorial Day ceremony.

Those whom we commemorate on Memorial Day were no different than the rest of us. Their burdens, troubles and joys were like ours in the present time. For the most part, they were not soldiers or sailors by profession. They were ordinary citizens like you and I. In the words inscribed on the monument to the 107th Field Artillery in Boalsburg, Pennsylvania, "When the call came, they put away their tools, closed their desks, covered their typewriters, banked their fires, hung up their overalls and went forth to meet the enemy on foreign soil."

"They died that we too might have the things they loved. Without distinction of race, religion or nationality, they gave their lives to their country. They died for what this Nation under God represented to them."

We gather today to honor them all. How can we best honor those who have given their all? How shall we reply to the challenge of these fallen heroes? Not by mild murmuring or agreement and then customary indifference . . . this would be shallow respect indeed. On the contrary, we honor them by dedicating ourselves to defending those same ideals for which they died. This is the true significance of Memorial Day.

They are best honored by the fact that we still champion their cause. It is a cause which is worthy of our best efforts in 1967. They served their purpose in life well. May we be equal to the heritage we received from them. May we follow their examples and show by the service of our own lives that we are worthy to be these heroes sons and daughters.

Sugar Grove Sends Delegation to Erie

Sixty-four members of the Methodist Junior Churches from Sugar Grove and Lottsville enjoyed a trip to Erie by chartered bus.

Stops were made at Sanida Dairy for lunch and a visit to the trophy room. The children also toured the Battleship Niagara, followed by a ride on Lake Erie on the Carol Diane. A visit was made to the Church of the Covenant, where Miss Reed, church secretary, served as guide for a tour of the church. The final stop was a visit to the Erie Zoo.

Mrs. T. E. Spofford is in charge of Junior Church, which meets weekly during the morning service. Choirs from the groups have sung at church services; roller-skating and swimming parties have been enjoyed, as well as parties at Hallowe'en, Christmas and Easter. Christmas gifts were sent by the children to the Ruth M. Smith Home at Sheffield. As a special project, they are helping to support three children at an orphanage in Jerusalem.

The Mother and Daughter banquet of the Sugar Grove Presbyterian Church was held in the school cafeteria, with a swiss steak dinner served to 128 mothers and daughters. Mrs. Gary Shepherd was chairman, and served as mistress of ceremonies. Mrs. Scott Stuart, Sr., gave the table prayer, using Robert Burns table grace.

Mrs. Michael Schultz presented flowering plants to Mrs. J. E. Abbott, eldest mother present (91 years), Mrs. Morris Beedle, youngest mother, Mrs. Kenneth Williams, with four daughters present, Mrs. Lawrence Abbott and Mrs. John Stuart, each with five granddaughters present.

Mrs. Shepherd and Craig Brown presented a skit, "A Tribute to Sons". Levinson's of Warren presented a style show, with the following serving as models: Mrs. Robert Morgan, Mrs. Kenneth Daker, Mrs. Leonard Briggs, Mrs. Russell Forsgren, Mrs. Marvin Thorpe, Nancy Wilcox, Pat Arthur, Lorrie Williams, Susan Shepherd and Ann Brown.

Assisting Mrs. Shepherd on the committee were Mrs. Victor Spafford, Mrs. Robert Carlson, and Mrs. Clyde Arthur. Mrs. Robert Morgan and Mrs. Scott Stuart, Jr., made dainty umbrella favors and table decorations of spring flowers.

Eighteen men and boys served the dinner and acted as waiters.

The May meeting of WSCS of the Sugar Grove Methodist Church was held at the home of Mrs. Jesse Thompson. Serving on the committee were Mrs. F. A. Schoonover, Mrs. Rex Jones, and Mrs. Carl Allen.

Mrs. Stanley Meelen presided; Mrs. Gerald Miller gave the opening prayer and also served as accompanist for group singing. Officers reports were given by Mrs. Harry Sarvis and by Mrs. Burt Schoonover, who also conducted the annual pledge service. Assisting her in this service were Mrs. Sheldon Carlson, Mrs. Rex Jones, Mrs. Allene Briggs, Mrs. Walter Storms and Mrs. Ray Power. A short report was given on the district meeting, which was attended by Mrs. Briggs, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Meelen, Mrs. E. L. Comstock, Mrs. Muri Cady, Mrs. Louise Gourley, Mrs. Hobart Sanders and Mrs. Jones.

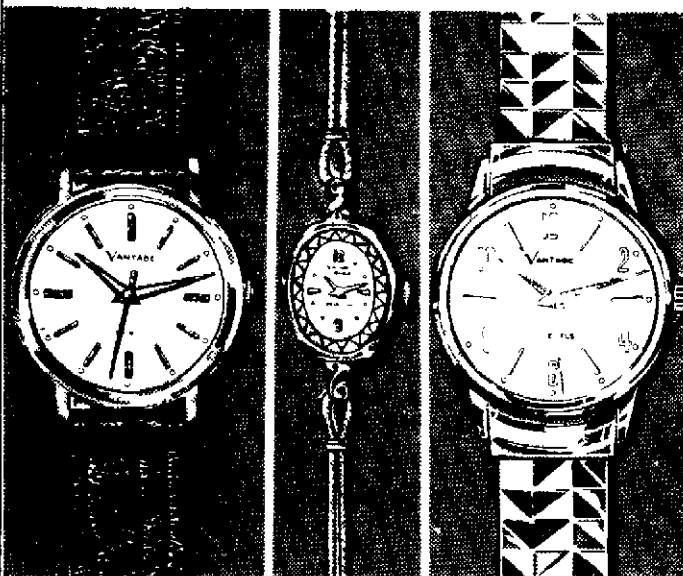

Miss Flossie Broughton was program chairman. Articles were read by Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Burt Schoonover, Mrs. Meelen, Mrs. Donald Gruber, and Mrs. Comstock. Scripture passages were read by Mrs. Clifford Storms, Mrs. Bessie Saunders, Mrs. Robert Audley, Mrs. Harold Barnes and Mrs. James Jackson. The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer.

The next meeting will be held at the Mission House at Chautauqua on June 15, with Mrs. Briggs as hostess.

Bear Lake News

By PEGGY OSBORNE

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sechrist went to Tidoute last Tuesday evening.

Thursday evening there was a Community Action meeting in the Bear Lake E.U.B. Church basement. Chairman was Mrs. Lucille Irvine.

All people in Bear Lake, Lottsville, and Wrightsville are asked to attend these meetings. The Community Action Programs will provide technical and financial assistance for urban and rural communities to fight poverty. This is not just for the poor; it is for all families. A few things that have come from this are Golden Agers for the older people and activities for the preschoolers.

On Friday evening May 26th, the Y.F. of the Bear Lake E.U.B. Church honored the seniors of the community with a banquet.

The Rev. Mr. Ames, pastor of the Baptist Church of Panama, gave the seniors a brief message.

A "New Testament" gift given by the church was presented by the pastor, Rev. Lynn Ostrander to each senior. A film "Search for Truth" was shown. Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Manwaring are their Y.F. leaders.

there were 34 present. The following were honored: Miss Kathline Reed, Miss Lois Crosby, Miss Christine Collins, Miss Vera Carter, Miss Kater Zalik, Gary Carter, and Leland Grow.

Carnegie Course Names Session Award Winners

At the seventh Thursday evening session of the current Dale Carnegie class at the Warren Y.M.C.A., award winners were announced.

Swanson One-Hits Olean To Close HS Career, 5-0

By LARRY G. STEELE
Sports Editor

'SWAN SONG'

Roy Swanson makes his final trip to the mound for Warren Area High School as he finished up his career in a Dragon uniform yesterday with a one-hitter over Olean, N.Y., 5-0. The senior right-hander, who had a 12-4 record over three seasons, including two no-hitters, struck out 13 batters in the seven inning contest for his fifth triumph of the season. It was also the final game of the season for the Dragons, and perhaps the last time the sport will be played by WAHS. See story at right. (Photo by Steele)

Nichols, Beverage Squeak by in City

In a pair of real nail-biters in the City Softball League last night at Carbon Field, Nichols and Warren Beverage had to struggle to pull out wins. The opener saw Nichols forced into extra innings to clip Betts Machine 4-3. Bob Larson singled in the winning run with two out in the top of the eighth. Tom Le Trent led off the inning with a double for the U-Haulers. Two outs followed before Larson got the winning hit. Larson had three RBIs for the night. In the sixth inning Larson belted a two-run double and later scored on an error to give Nichols three runs and a 3-3 tie. The Nichols third baseman enjoyed a four-for-four night at the plate. Betts scored twice in the first inning on a single by Danny Suppa and a double by Ronnie Castagnino. A single by Ken Hoffman, a pair of errors and a walk to Al Brown gave Betts their third run in the third inning.

On the mound John Berdine for Betts had the best of it, but turned out to be the loser. He fanned seven and didn't yield a free pass. Booney Sturdevant picked up the win. He fanned one and walked five. Both pitchers gave up six hits. Warren Beverage scored two runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to overtake the Sons of

Smith, Turcott Take Flag Play

Boots Smith of Warren and Pete Turcott of Jamestown fired 39's to win the low gross in the weekly Stag Day at the Jackson Valley Country Club. Low net scores were fired by Dick Anderson (32), Jim Hedman (33), Paul Rosenquist (33), Phil Samuelson (34), Gary Swanson (35), Jim Wuerzle (35) and Paul Johnston Sr. (35). Boots Smith used only 12 puts on the nine holes to win the award for the least puts used. Dan Lucia and Lou Vizza each had 13 green shots.

Next week there will be a blind partners tournament held in conjunction with the stag day.

Bowling Results

Riverside Women's Summer League — Judy Campbell 186 — 522; Ruth Gahan 183 — 521; Rita Miley 186 — 509; Phyl Prego 184 — 502; Mickey Hartman 178 — 494; Betty McClain 197 — 478.

Bowladrome Monday Mixed League — Joyce Carlson 168 — 461; Mary Biehls 168 — 490; Joyce Spicer 158 — 419; Louise Nelson 149 — 405; George Biehls 193 — 567; Bob Chase 182 — 544; Don Miller 205 — 541; Duane Spicer 188 — 525. Men's Summer League — Curt Arp 201 — 537; Paul Duckett 204 — 535; Doug Weston 200 — 533; Howard Hilliard 225 — 531; Baldy Andereg 202 — 528.

Senior right-hander Roy Swanson capped his Warren Area High School pitching career here yesterday by hurling a one-hit, 5-0 victory over Olean, N.Y. High School.

Swanson also collected two of the Dragons' seven hits in three trips to the plate as he posted his fifth triumph of the season against two defeats. During the three years he wore a Blue and White uniform, Swanson compiled a 12-4 record, including two no-hit games, one last season and another in this year's opening game against Meadville.

In posting the win, he struck out 13 Olean hitters and walked four. He threw no-hit ball until the fifth inning, when Dave Shoff, the Huskies' leftfielder, ripped a single through the hole between first and second. Due to one Dragon error, the four free passes and Shoff's hit, Olean had men on base in every inning except the sixth, but couldn't break the ice against the hard-throwing Swanson.

The first Olean hitter in the three drew a free pass, but Swanson set down the side on strikes. A free pass, stolen base and throwing error allowed a Huskie all the way to third with one out in the fourth, but he died there when Swanson fanned the next man and got the third out on a line drive back to the box.

Swanson also scored two of the Dragons' runs, coming around on two Olean errors after legging out an infield single in the third and scoring on Barry Dietch's bunt after he had opened the fifth with another single in the hole at shortstop.

Doug Sorensen scored the first Warren tally in the opening frame. He had beat out an infield tapper, moved up on a fielder's choice, stole third and came home on a single up the middle by catcher Jeff Marti. Swanson scored the first of two runs in both the third and fourth frames. The Dragons went ahead, 3-0 in the third when Corky Greenwood, who had reached first on the first Olean misplay, followed Swanson home on the second error of the frame.

In the fifth, Greenwood nursed Olean hurler Dick Hutchinson for a walk, was wild-pitched to third and again traced Swanson's steps home on Dietch's bunt.

The victory ended Warren's off-rained out campaign with six wins against four defeats. The possibility that it will be the final season for Dragon baseball still exists. Earlier this spring, the school board had voted to drop the sport. Leftfielder Denny Valone and reserve rightfielder Rod Hultquist turned in the fielding gems of the day. Valone snared a sinking line drive in the sixth inning and Hultquist, who had replaced Jim Mock in right in the seventh, made a diving catch of another liner to help the cause.

Mock recorded the game's only extra-base hit, a one-out double to right centerfield in the fourth frame, but he was left stranded.

Jones' Car Fails, Foyt 500 Winner

RUNNING ALL RIGHT NOW, BUT...

Parnelli Jones' revolutionary turbine-driven racer leaves spectators a blur behind him as he burns up the track on his way to what looked like a sure victory in the Indy 500 yesterday. The car developed gear trouble, however, with just 7 1/2 miles remaining in the race and Jones had to drop out. A.J. Foyt, who had settled down to insure himself place, drove past a five-car pile-up to win the event with Jones in the pits.

SEEING ACCIDENT, HE HAD GIVEN UP

Like Foyt's Always Said, 'Race Is 500 Miles Long'

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — A. J. Foyt, winner of the Indianapolis 500-mile race for the third time, saw victory suddenly materialize but then almost vanish as quickly in the last four minutes yesterday.

"I figured there it goes," said Foyt when he saw five cars skid and crash in front of him on the final turn less than a mile from the checkered flag.

Foyt said he slowed almost to a stop and drove onto the infield grass to get around the cars. "There were cars all over the race track. It was quite crowded," he said.

Foyt, 32, of Houston, said, "I knew I had the race won if I could just get back to the starting line."

Foyt, who had trailed Parnelli Jones most of the race, took the lead four laps from the end when the revolutionary turbine car of the Californian failed.

"The fans were the ones who told me," said Foyt, "I knew something had happened when the fans started waving me on."

The three-time champion had led briefly twice during the race when Jones went in for pit stops, but ran second the rest of the time.

"Like I've always said, the race is 500 miles long," Foyt added. It was the second time Foyt became a surprise winner in the closing minutes.

He captured the rich prize for the first time in 1961 when the late Eddie Sachs had to stop for a tire change with two laps to go. Foyt repeated his triumph in 1964.

Jones said he thought his car's gear box might have failed.

The disappointed Jones said, "I was running quite smoothly and all of a sudden it wore out. I was driving those last four laps so slowly I thought there was nothing that could go wrong. It was just like driving my passenger car down the highway," Jones added.

Foyt won in a Coyote-Ford that he helped build. It was powered by a rear-engine like many of the other cars in contrast with Jones' silent turbine.

Foyt said Jones' success would cause him to change his own car design next year, but didn't offer any specifics.

Hulme Top Rookie

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Denis Hulme of Tauranga, New Zealand, won the Rookie-of-the-Year award yesterday at the annual victory dinner for the drivers of the 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. Hulme finished in an unofficial fourth position in the race.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — A. J. Foyt's winning Coyote-Ford in the 51st 500-mile auto race yesterday had a modified British Lola chassis.

It had the same rear-engine slipper shape, with the driver almost lying on his back, which had proved so successful for Jimmy Clark in his 1965 winning Lotus-Ford and for Graham Hill in his 1966 winning Lola-Ford.

Foyt himself designed most of the modifications and his crew chief was his father, A. J. Sr., long associated with racing as a driver and car owner in Houston.

The engine was the Ford double overhead cam racing engine, a V-8, which now has won three straight 500s after a series of 18 straight by Offenhauser 48.

The engine has a bore of 3.76 inches and stroke of 2.87 inches for 255.3 cubic inches of piston displacement, yielding 500 brake horsepower at 5,000 r.p.m. It burns methanol.

Foyt's car, although his firm built it, was owned and entered by the Ansted-Thompson Racing Corp. of Indianapolis, with which he has long been associated.

Shabel is the fourth athletic director in Penn history, the others being Jim Swarts, Franzy Murray, and Ford for the past 13 years.

The announcement said that Shabel was selected by a committee of six faculty members, two trustees, two students, and Fields as an ex-officio member.

Shabel, Rix Yard, athletic director at Tulane, and Asbury "Red" Coward, former Navy athletic director, were the top candidates for the job. Yard removed himself after a conference with the committee.

Shabel helped coach America's 1956 Olympic Basketball team while in the Air Force, then spent a year in a sales training program for an oil company before going to Duke, his alma mater, as assistant basketball coach. He then went to Connecticut.

Ford was fired after he clashed with Fields over alleged violation of Ivy League regulations and the use of a slush fund to help student athletes without the knowledge of the athletic director.

Fields said later that Ford

Three-Time Winner

Beauty queens and bagpipers surrounded Foyt in the swirl of victory. He, wearing the traditional kisses and the sip of milk. Grinning, he waved to the crowd as his father shouted, "I told you that turbine couldn't finish."

Only three drivers in the half-century history of the 500-mile preceded Foyt to victory lane three times. They were Louis Meyer, Wilbur Shaw and Mauri Rose, the last in 1948.

7 1/2 Miles to Go, Turbine Falters

By DALE BURGESS
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — A. J. Foyt, never quitting in spite of an apparently hopeless battle against a fantastic aircraft engine, won the rain-delayed 500-mile Memorial Day auto race yesterday for the third time.

Parnelli Jones, Torrance, Calif., apparently had the race locked up when his STP-Pratt & Whitney turbine car failed with only 7 1/2 miles to go. The engine was running when he limped into the pits with a bearing failure.

Foyt set a race record of 151,207 miles per hour against the 1965 mark of 150,686 by Jimmy Clark of Scotland.

Five cars piled up at the head of the mainstretch just as the Houston area approached the mainstretch and no other cars completed the full 200 laps.

Foyt threaded his way through the tangle and reached victory circle by way of the pit apron.

The victory was all the sweeter because Foyt Enterprises built the winning Coyote-Ford to Foyt's own specifications—and because he had a miserable season last year involving three wrecks. He was one of the drivers knocked out in the 1966 first lap pileup of 16 cars in the 500 last year.

He won previously in 1961 and 1964 and now has a three-for-10 mark at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. Only Louis Meyer, Mauri Rose and Wilbur Shaw, before Foyt, had been three-time winners.

Al Unser, from a famous New Mexico racing family, was the unofficial second in a Lola-Ford with an English chassis, and Joe Leonard, San Jose, Calif., took third as Foyt's teammate in another Coyote-Ford.

All positions except Foyt's were unofficial. The race was stopped just as Foyt crossed the finish line because of the smash up on the mainstretch. Positions will be awarded according to laps completed at that time.

Denis Hulme of New Zealand was fourth unofficially in a Eagle-Ford; Jim McElreath of Arlington, Tex., fifth in a Moore-Ford, and Jones was placed sixth in the turbine on the basis of laps completed.

Chuck Hulme of Los Angeles was seventh in a Lotus turbo-charged Offy; Art Pollard of Medford, Ore., eighth in a Gerhardt turbo-charged Offy; Bobby Unser, Al's brother from Albuquerque, ninth in an Eagle-Ford, and Bob Veith of San Lorenzo, Calif., tenth in a Gerhardt Turbo-charged Offy.

The total purse has been estimated at $700,000. Last year's total was $691,808, of which the winning driver and car owner got $156,297.

However, this year's figure won't be announced until today. Official standings won't be posted until 8 a.m. EST, and afterward there will be a 30-minute protest period.

In spite of the Tuesday rain-out forcing completion of the race on a weekday, crowd estimates ranged up to 250,000 under sunny skies. No official attendance figures ever are given.

The spectacular pileup that stopped the field back of Foyt left nobody injured, nor was anybody hurt in a series of smashes that kept the yellow caution light on for one hour and four minutes of the race.

The record would have been much higher with fewer accidents. The yellow was on only 13 minutes in 1965 when Clark set the old record.

The race-ending wreck yesterday involved cars of Carl Williams, Kansas City; Bobby Brim, Indianapolis; and Chuck Hulme, Los Angeles, all badly damaged, and several others dented or scorched.

Jones' glowing red vehicle, built by Studebaker Corporation's STP division, was powered by a Canadian-built Pratt & Whitney turbine that had too

Pro-Am Washed Out At Memphis Tourney

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Rain washed out yesterday's pro-am preliminary to the $100,000 Memphis Open Golf Tournament, but forecasts for only intermittent shower activity today raised hopes the first round would not be delayed.

This marked only the third time this season — covering 20 tournaments and 100 golf days — that a tour round had been rained out.

Old-Timers Slate Softball Practice

Dick Pearce, General Manager of the Youngsville Old-Timers, announced that they would have a practice session tonight at the Westside Field at 6:30. Uniforms will be issued at this time. Pearce asked that everyone please be there. The first game of the year will be announced later in the week.

much oomph for the piston engines until it quit.

Jones had been running away from the field Tuesday when the race was halted at 45 miles because of rain. He took up at the same place in the single-file restart yesterday.

He surrendered the lead only three times to Foyt, twice on the two compulsory pit stops when he regained it immediately as Foyt had made his delayed halts. Jones led Foyt by more than a mile when the end came for the revolutionary, but controversial, turbine, the first such engine ever to qualify for the race.

International racer Dan Gurney ran a spirited second in his own American Eagle Ford until a series of mechanical failures put him far behind. He finally retired on the 170th lap.

Speedway timers later said Jones also lost the lead on two other laps — the 51st and the 52nd—when he spun into the infield to avoid another spinning racer. Gurney took over the lead on these two laps.

Four of the European Grand Prix drivers had a disappointing day. Graham Hill, last year's winner, went out with a burned piston after 31 laps. His teammate on the British Lotus' 1965 Indianapolis winner Jimmy Clark, retired with the same trouble after 38 laps. It was a dismal finish for two former world champions.

Jochen Rindt of Vienna, No. 2 on the world road racing circuit last year, had made three pit stops for assorted reasons before brushing the wall in the southeast turn and then retiring with engine trouble.

Scotsman Jackie Stewart, who led part of the 1966 race, blew an engine with nine laps to go while running third.

Mario Andretti, qualification record setter but already hopelessly behind because of clutch trouble Tuesday, was eliminated completely when he lost a wheel and slid into the infield early in running yesterday.

Four cars were involved when Carl Williams spun in the northwest corner. Bob Veith damaged his nose cone on the wall and Jerry Grant and Art Pollard also spun but didn't hit anything.

The mainstretch crowd had an agonizing moment when Wally Dallenbach, a promising rookie, crashed into the pit-protection wall and stopped in the middle of the track.

Dallenbach stood up in his car as a cluster of others bore down on him, finally jumping to the inside of the track. All the racers streamed past on the outside edge. The New Brunswick, N.J., driver had completed 95 laps.

Veteran Lloyd Ruby, driving relief for George Snider, and southern stock car ace Cale Yarborough collided in the north short chute but both walked away.

Unofficial 500 Finish

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Here is a chart of the unofficial finish of the 51st Indianapolis Motor Speedway 500-mile auto race, subject to revision after all timing tapes are checked (cars still running at 4:22 a.m. EST):

1. A. J. Foyt Jr., Houston, Coyote-Ford, 500 miles, 151,207 m.p.h., new record; old record 150,686 by Jimmy Clark, Duns, Scotland, 1965.

2. Al Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., Lola-Ford, 495 miles, flagged off.

3. Joe Leonard, San Jose, Calif., Coyote-Ford, 492.5 miles, flagged off.

4. Denis Hulme, Tauranga, New Zealand, Eagle-Ford, 492 miles, flagged off.

5. Jim McElreath, Arlington, Tex., Moore-Ford, 492.5 miles, flagged off.

6. Parnelli Jones, Torrance, Calif., turbine, 490 miles, broken gear box.

7. Chuck Hulme, Los Angeles, Lola-Ford, 487.5 miles, flagged off.

8. Art Pollard, Medford, Ore., Gerhardt-Offenhauser, 487.5 miles, flagged off.

9. Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., Eagle-Ford, 482.5 miles, flagged off.

10. Bob Veith, San Lorenzo, Calif., Gerhardt-Offenhauser, 475 miles, flagged off.

11. Jerry Grant, San Jose, Calif., BRP-Ford, 472.5 miles, wreck.

12. Gordon Johncock, Hastings, Mich., Gerhardt-Ford, 470 miles, spun out.</

FIND THEM ANYWHERE

Maybe you won't find Northern Pike in every stream, but Carl Hazeltine found this 29½ inch, 6¼ lb. Northern in the Little Brokenstraw Creek. Hazeltine was trout fishing with a fly rod and six-pound test line when he landed the pike. Hazeltine did get trout but it wasn't where he expected to find it. When he was cleaning the Northern he found an eight-inch trout inside. (Photo by Ray Hazeltine)

Twin, Mineral Well Cop Rec Loop Wins

Twin Drive In scored a run in the last of the seventh to win its sixth game of the season last night, edging City Ice, 6-5 in a Rec Softball League game.

Other action saw the Mineral Well Metropolitans wallop the Surf Club 17-6 in a game played at the Westside Field.

Hurler Jack Colvin posted his sixth win for the defending league champs as his mates broke a 5-5 tie.

Twin jumped to a 1-0 lead in the first, but was tied in the second by City Ice. TDI scored four runs in the bottom of the third to take a 5-1 margin. City Ice fought back and tallied a single run in the fifth, a pair in the sixth and one in the seventh to tie the score.

John Larson and Gary Groner belted doubles for the winners. Ed Cummings and Tony Vavala had two base hits for the City Ice.

Winning pitcher was Colvin, the loser was Charlie Pettit.

The Mineral Well Mets scored eight times in the first inning and coasted to a 17-6 win over the Surf Club, a team which has won only one game, that being over the Mets.

Mineral Well posted 16 hits, including home runs by Pat Harnett and Darrell Johnson. The rest of the extra-base hit attack for the Mets showed Johnson with a triple and Jack Suppa two doubles and Mick Dison, Denny Strandburg and Morty Steele had two-base hits for the winners.

Dick Merenick, the losing pitcher, was three-for-four at the plate including a double. Marti had a home run, Anundson a triple and Solock a double for the Surfers.

Ortiz Lines Up August Defense

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Bill Daly said yesterday that if lightweight champion Carlos Ortiz beats Sugar Ramos in his title defense at San Juan, P.R., July 1, he will make his next defense against Panama's Ismael Laguna.

"If Carlos wins, Laguna definitely will get the next shot, and probably in August," said Daly.

"The fight with Laguna will be made a week after the Ramos defense. We will open negotiations for a site and date. It could be in any city in the United States."

Daly said Ortiz will leave for Puerto Rico Monday to open his training camp there.

HOT STOVE LEAGUE

Rookie Looks Good

Dave Lane, a first-year Cadet, pitched Nelson-Ellberg to a 22-16 win over Warren Car in a Borough Cadet League game played at North Warren. Lane fanned seven as the winners jumped their record to 2-0 for the season. Rick Freeburgh had a pair of doubles while teammates Lane, Ron California and Bob Jackson had a double apiece. Terry English was charged with the loss for Warren Car. Tim Ressler had a double for the losers.

Break it Wide Open

A rally, good for 15 runs, in the top of the sixth broke open a 6-3 game and gave Gaugh's Drug Store a 21-3 win over Wiles-Lantz IGA in a Borough Bantam League game played at Crescent Field last night. The winners are now 3-0. Winning pitcher Marty Loomis received a lot of support from Billy Cummings who had a double and a triple. Randy English cracked a triple also for Gaugh's. Greg Wozniak's third inning homer sparked a rally that put the Grocers in a temporary 3-3 tie with Gaugh's. Greg Redding was tagged with the loss.

Bankers Even Record

Pennsylvania Bank and Trust evened its record at 1-1 last night with a 5-3 win over Lind's Service Station in a game played at Youngsville. Brian Thompson was the winning hurler. Loser was Jay Barker. John Papalia had the only extra base hit for the winners, a triple. Barker had a pair of doubles for Lind's.

Crossley Has One-Hitter

Berenfield Barrel posted its second win of the season last night as they walloped Sheffield Rotary 16-0 in an Eastern Bantam game played at the Old Football Field in Sheffield. The only hit off Larry Crossley was a single by Quiggle. Paul Champion and Martin Jenkins cracked home runs and doubles for the winners. Tim Walker went four-for-five with a double while Randy Walker laced a double and a triple for Berenfield. Mike Parr was the losing pitcher for the Sheffield Rotary.

Components Now 2-1

The Saegertown Components scored a 10-4 win over Penn Furnace in a Borough Cadet League game played at the Westside Field last night. Randy Honhart was winning hurler for Saegertown. John Collins was tagged with the defeat for Penn Furnace. The winners were bolstered by a home run by Craig Esterbrook and doubles by Dan Schwanke, Randy Edwards and Ron Carpenter. Steve Daniels had a triple for the losers. Collecting doubles were Jim Egger, Kim Johnson and Dave Saporito for Penn Furnace.

Real Wrecking Crew

Holister McNeal and Tom Curran proved to be a real wrecking crew last night as they accounted for 11 runs batted in and a mound victory for Bartsch Furniture as they clipped Rex Chain Belt 16-7 in a Bantam League game played at Thomas Field. The winners, now 2-1, got six RBIs from Curran who had a bases-loaded triple and a double. McNeal, the winning pitcher, was four-for-four at the plate with five RBIs. On the hill, McNeal—the first of three pitchers—fanned 10. Rob in Rickerson was the losing pitcher for Rex. He had a two-run homer in the losing cause. Brian Fowler worked well in relief for the losers giving up four hits in five innings.

Lumbermen Shaved

Brownie's and Youngs of Pittsfield posted a 29-9 win over McChesney Lumber in an American Division Bantam League game played in Pittsfield last night. Brian DeVore and Dennis Benedict had home runs for the winners. R. Wiant, the losing pitcher, had a homer for McChesney's. Richard Woodcock and DeVore worked on the mound for Brownie's and Youngs.

An Ideal Night?

Auto body posted a 36-3 win over Ideal Bakery Borough Bantam League game played last night at Lacy Field. The winners used three pitchers, Gary Haller, Jeff McClement, and Mike Carr. McClement was the hitting star for the winners with a pair of grand slam homers. Mark Zingone was nailed with the loss for Ideal.

Slate Still Clean

The Style Shop kept its perfect record intact last night with a 32-2 win over Community Consumer Discount in a Borough Bantam League game, Nov 2-0. The Style Shop made the most of 26 base-on balls issued by a host of pitchers for the losers. Keith Badgate was the winning pitcher. He was backed by two home runs by Rick Sorenson and a double by Rick Ahlgren. Bathgate fanned 11. Starter, and loser for Community Consumer was Zaffino.

Winner in Relief

Mike Tucker picked up his first win of the year last night in relief as Pittsburgh Des Moines scored an 8-7 win over El-Tronics in a Cadet game played at Jackson Field. Tucker worked the final three and two-thirds innings giving up two runs, but striking out 7 of the opposing batters. Mark Krumm had a double for the winners. Darryl Pierce laced a double and a triple for El-Tronics.

A Lot of Walking

Russo Plumbing took advantage of a lot of walks on the part of a host of Barnhart Davis hurlers last night to post their first win in a Borough Bantam game. Russo's had only six hits, but were on the receiving end of a lot of base on balls. John Marley was the winning pitcher for Russo's. He surrendered only three hits. Hall was charged with the defeat. Charles Beckham had a grand slam homer for the winners. Rob Zimmerman helped the winners with a double.

Records First Victory

Sheffield won its opening game of the season in the County Cadet League last night with a 5-4 win over the Clarendon VFW in eight innings. Relief pitcher Tom Fitzgerald picked up the win for Sheffield. Starting pitcher was Terry Schrader. Mark Meddock was tagged with the loss. Les Haumesser drove in the winning run with a base hit in the last of the eighth. Each team had one extra base blow. Brent Jones stroked a double for the winners while Meddock had a two-bagger for Clarendon.

Posts Top-Sided Win

Times-Square Service Station routed Struthers Wells, 21-1 in an Eastern Cadet League game played last night at Memorial Field. The winning pitcher, Corky Reynolds, gave up only four hits as the winners notched their third win in as many games. Lane Dunn was stuck with the loss for Struthers Wells. Rick Lowdowski and Mike Nenard each had three hits for the winners.

Spiedel-Lesser 2-0

Spiedel - Lesser Insurance Company kept its record perfect as it registered its second win of the season in as many starts as it posted a 15-13 win over Lewis Market in a Borough Bantam League game played at Starbrick. Larry Salapek was the winning pitcher. He needed relief help from John Wolfe who also tripled. Dan Freeborough had a pair of doubles and Mark Zawacki had a two-bagger for the winners. Ronny McCune had four singles for the losers while Mark Hooker had a double.

Epstein's Grateful To Nats for Trade

By TOM SEPPY
AP Sports Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Mike Epstein, the hulking first baseman who refused to report to the minor leagues when sent down by Baltimore, said yesterday he wants "to repay as quickly as possible the debt of confidence the Washington Senators have in me."
"I'm very grateful to the Senators for giving me a chance," said Epstein, acquired from the Orioles by Washington Monday along with pitcher Frank Bertaina for the Senators' No. 1 pitcher, Pete Richert.
Epstein, smiling and apparently in good spirits, made his remarks at a hastily called news conference before he worked out in D.C. Stadium after arriving from California.
The 6-foot-3, 200-pounder, named Minor League Player of The Year after playing at Rochester of the International League in 1966, went home to California three weeks ago rather than report back to Rochester.
"I was actually very serious about quitting," said Epstein. "I had made up my mind. I wasn't going anywhere in the Baltimore organization."
"If the Orioles hadn't traded me, I would have definitely stayed out of baseball. And I meant it. I was already enrolled in school and had a good job when I was notified of the trade. I wasn't hurting."
Epstein hinted but did not say outright that he might be willing to return to the minor leagues if he doesn't make the grade with the Senators.
"I'm not looking forward to that happening," he said. "But at least I will be able to say 'I had a chance.' I couldn't say that at Baltimore."
Asked how long it will be before Epstein starts at first base, Manager Gil Hodges said with a grin: "He might be there tonight. He looks in good shape."
"Seriously though, I can't really say. I haven't talked to him and can't say too much until I do. It might be unfair to him and our ballclub to put him in the line-up until he is ready," said Hodges.
"You can be sure that as soon as he says he's ready, he'll be out on first."

Phils Bring Up Pitcher Boozier

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies announced the purchase yesterday from their San Diego farm team in the Pacific Coast League of pitcher John Boozier.
Boozier, a right hander, has a 3-4 record in 10 games this season at San Diego. He has posted a 2.59 ERA.
The Phillies said Boozier, who was with the Phillies for portions of the 1962, 1963, 1964 and 1966 seasons and has a 6-8 major league record, would report to manager Gene Mauch at Los Angeles last night.

U.S. Planes Bomb Hanoi Oil Depot

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
SAIGON—United States Navy fighter bombers flew through heavy antiaircraft fire and surface-to-air missiles yesterday to bomb two petroleum storage areas within four miles of downtown Haiphong.

A spokesman said no U.S. planes were lost in the raid although two were shot down in attacks Tuesday, raising the total to 564 lost in the north.

Clearing weather permitted strikes near North Vietnam's major cities for the second day. Tuesday, fighter bombers blasted the runway of the Hoaiac MIG airbase 20 miles west of Hanoi, and hit a number of railroad yards and rail and highway bridges around Hanoi.

In yesterday's attacks, planes from the aircraft carrier Hancock bombed the petroleum storage dumps at Loi Dong and Cong My My on opposite sides of the Cua Cam River within four miles of Haiphong's major dock area.

A spokesman said the two fuel dumps were important storage areas used for transshipping petroleum from ships to rails and roads into North Vietnam. The river bottom fronting the two dumps is clogged with mud, the spokesman said, and consequently long flexible pipes are floated out to tankers afloat further down the river.

For that reason, the spokesman said, there was no danger to foreign shipping from the attacking carrier jets.

The spokesman said antiaircraft fire was moderate to heavy around the two sites and numbers of Russian-built surface-to-air missiles were sighted in the air by pilots.

The two petroleum dumps had been attacked three times previously, the last attack on May 10.

In air strikes near Hanoi Tuesday, Air Force Thunderchief pilots attacked three railroad yards ranging from 29 to 44 miles northeast of Hanoi.

Navy carrier pilots hit the Phuly railroad and highway bridges, 35 miles south of Hanoi. The rail bridge is the only rail link southward from Hanoi.

Pilots reported destroying the rail bridge and part of the highway bridge.

Highlands Fighting Breaks Out

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
SAIGON — Ground fighting flared anew in the Central Highlands and south of the Demilitarized Zone near Conthien yesterday.

The fighting near the Demilitarized Zone was on a hill which U.S. Marines had captured the day before and believed to be secured. When they moved to clean out enemy bunkers and tunnels, new fighting broke out.

The two U.S. Marine companies pulled back to enable artillery and airstrikes to pound the back of the hill where the enemy was dug in. At dawn yesterday the Marines went back to the summit of the hill seeking the enemy.

A spokesman said one Marine was killed and 45 wounded. Seven North Vietnamese were killed in the latest fighting.

In the Central Highlands, troops of the U.S. Fourth Infantry Division killed six North Vietnamese soldiers in a brief fight near the Cambodian border. Two American infantrymen were wounded.

On the coast, 125 miles south of Danang, a company of First Air Cavalry Division troopers fought with an estimated reinforced North Vietnamese company. An interim report listed 25 North Vietnamese killed.

Rep. Fuellhart Misses Votes; Three for Frame

William C. Fuellhart, Warren County's representative in the State House of Representatives, did not vote on any of the bills acted on in the House last week.

State Senator Richard Frame voted "yes" on the three bills before the Senate, all of which passed. Those bills were to:

- Amend the Vehicle Code by further providing for the insurance policy that is required to relieve a person from a suspension imposed or about to be imposed as a result of a judgment.
- Consolidate, editorially revise and codify the public welfare laws of Pennsylvania.
- Remove deed reservations covering the transfer of the State Forest School at Mont Alto to the Pennsylvania State University.

Among the bills passed in the House was one to amend the County Code by further providing for the classification of counties. Defeated in the House was a bill to amend the Police-men's Relief and Pension Fund Law by extending credit for certain military service.

Other House bills last week dealt with government in third class cities and with administration of the Bituminous Coal Open Pit Mining Conservation Act.

Hoover Says Predictions Cause Riots

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover protested yesterday that statements by civil rights leaders pinpointing cities where riots may occur this summer is an open invitation to hotheads and rabble-rousers to "move into action."

Hoover apparently referred to Stokely Carmichael, former head of the Southern Christian Coordinating Committee, and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

The FBI director, however, did not mention either by name in making his comment in his monthly message to the June issue of the FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin.

King has said the nation can expect trouble this summer in many cities, especially Cleveland, Ohio. Carmichael has made similar statements referring to Washington.

In the past, Hoover has often criticized the actions of King and Carmichael.

Hoover's new statement said riots and anarchic demonstrations which leave devastation and run in their wake place a tremendous burden on law enforcement officers.

"Already hampered by undermanned staffs, police authorities are forced to marshal their strength in expected trouble spots and leave other neighborhoods without proper police protection," he said.

"In fact, enforcement officers spend much of their time protecting and guarding marchers and petitioners."

"However, police officials, as well as the general public, are becoming weary of persons who, for self-aggrandizement and monetary gain, exploit noble causes and agitate peaceful groups into rioting mobs."

"Some so-called leaders seem to 'blow hot and cold with the same breath.' Their preachments are beginning to have a hollow ring. They claim to support nonviolence, but do they?"

As an example, Hoover said for the leaders to publicly pinpoint certain cities where riots and violence may occur seems to be inconsistent with the doctrine of nonviolence.

Bartlett Says Youngsville Bypass, Route 6, Important to Pennsylvania

The new four-lane divided highway, which represents the $5.8 million Youngsville bypass, is soon to be a reality according to a report given Saturday by State Highways Secretary, Robert C. Bartlett, before the Roosevelt Highway Association in Wellsboro.

"I am delighted to report that construction on the $5.8 million Youngsville bypass should be started this coming Monday. The contractor, S. J. Groves & Sons Co., has been notified to begin work on that day," Bartlett said.

"This new four-lane divided highway unquestionably will relieve the long-existing acute traffic congestion and materially bolster motor safety." The highway secretary continued. "Much heavy construction is involved in this project, including a five-span bridge, two five-span bridges and a 140-foot deep cut. Consequently, completion of the Youngsville bypass is anticipated during 1969," he said.

Bartlett explained, "The connector link from the east end of Youngsville bypass, near Jackson's Crossing, to join with the proposed Warren bypass, about 2.2 miles, is progressing in final design, currently half completed. This improvement will add another traffic lane to the existing three-lane facility, and will cost about $300,000. Bids are anticipated early next year," Bartlett said.

"As to the five-mile long Warren bypass, estimated to cost $4.6 million, we expect to have this facility in final design late this year and bids are anticipated in 1970," Bartlett commented.

In concluding his report Bartlett said: "Any concern that, upon completion of Interstate 80, anticipated within the next three years, U.S. 6 will 'take a back' seat, should be promptly dispelled. Remember this trans-state highway will remain as the 'main line' for Pennsylvania's northern tier counties. It is the gateway to magnificent scenery; prime fish and game country; and it will serve as the principal artery for millions who will visit Kinzua Dam near Warren."

McCool Answers Mandamus Charge

William F. Clinger Jr., acting as attorney for Warren County Treasurer Jack E. McCool, has filed an answer to two complaints in mandamus against his client recorded in the prothonotary's office May 8.

The legal action involved two tracts of property in Elk township up for bids at a county treasurer's sale here on August 3, 1966.

The plaintiffs in the mandamus complaints, represented by Rockwell O'Sheilly, are Roy Sherman, John H. Stewart and Carl F. Mazzu Jr., all residents of Pine Grove township. The plaintiffs allege they purchased the properties, a total of 77 acres at the tax sale and the deadline date for redemption

Erie Policemen Arrest 14 on Minor Drinking

ERIE—Fourteen minors were arrested by Erie police over the weekend on charges of underage drinking.

A top police official said the warmer months this time of year will mean more such arrests and additional police vigilance on such drinking.

Six of those charged with underage drinking were arrested at 2:45 p.m. Sunday at E. 15th st and Parade, when they were driving in a convertible and one yelled an obscenity at two policemen in a nearby patrol car.

Police stopped the convertible and found five quarts in the car. At about 11 p.m., Saturday, police arrested eight persons, all under 21, who allegedly were drinking in a houseboat at the foot of Walnut st.

All names were released to the news media and a fine of $25 and $11 in costs were paid by each of the 14 arrested. Fines were paid in police court.

was August 3, 1966.

In their petition, Sherman, Stewart and Mazzu, state that on August 2, 1966, Jack E. McCool accepted funds as county treasurer from himself as an individual to effect redemption. The plaintiffs have asked the court to request McCool to void the records pertinent to the transaction.

In the answer filed by his lawyer, McCool avers he was the legal, individual owner of the property redeemed and admitted he refused a request by the plaintiffs to void the official records. He denied the plaintiffs have any right, title or interest in said tracts.

McCool's answer avers he is not legally authorized and cannot be compelled to mark void official records in the office of county treasurer on the mere allegation that the person who redeemed was not the owner.

McCool has also cited undue and unreasonable delay in the plaintiffs taking action and said it was difficult for and detrimental to his interests because he has materially altered his position since the alleged cause of action accrued.

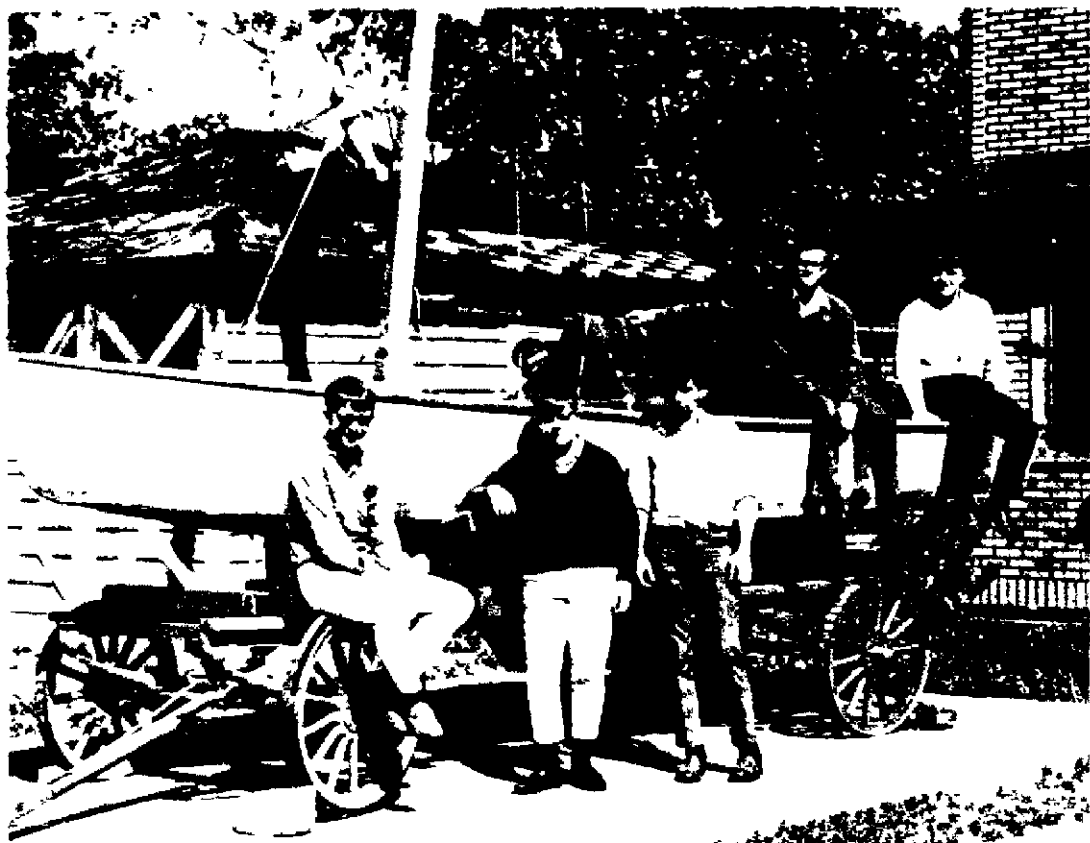

McCool, a Republican, who cannot succeed himself as county treasurer, was defeated in his race to unseat incumbent William E. Rice from the post of register and recorder.

Following the filing of the complaints in mandamus, McCool asked the county commissioners to request the resignation of Sherman, a Democrat and an employee of the county map office, challenging this plaintiff's legal right to bid at county tax sales.

Sherman said he had consulted three attorneys before participating in the sales and had been assured his position was legal. The plaintiffs said they had approached the county treasurer several times since last September before filing the mandamus complaints.

The boat was built in Erie, and was formerly owned by the Erie Yacht Club.

The Explorers are putting the sailboat in ship-shape, at the Holy Redeemer Scout House on North South st. They intend to try it out in the Allegheny Reservoir.

All boys 14 years of age or older are invited to join a Post 10.

The Sea Explorers are holding a rummage sale Friday and Saturday, June 2 and 3, to help finance the sloop.

Hearing Set In February Suffocation

A hearing is scheduled for 3 p.m. Tuesday, June 20 before Judge Alexander C. Flick Jr. to take testimony in regard to the suffocation death in February of a 19-year-old Warren County youth.

A summons was filed April 11 by Samuel S. Wallace of Kinzua Heights, father of the dead youth, Robert Lloyd Wallace and following the deposition this month, a complaint is expected to be filed against George and Valentine Henninger in whose home at 63 Mohawk ave., the victim was found.

Wallace had lived in a rented room at the Henninger residence for two weeks before his death was discovered at 6:10 p.m. Wednesday, February 8.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Richard C. Hegerty, who investigated, stated Wallace died sometime between 2:30 and 3 a.m. Sunday, Feb. 5 of this year.

The hearing will include inquiry concerning the death as well as physical exhibits, photos taken in the room where the body was found, laboratory reports from the FBI and the lease agreement.

Four Ohio Teenagers Die In Erie Area Accident

JEFFERSON, OHIO—In what may be the worst Memorial Day traffic mishap in the Erie area, four Ohio teenagers were killed in a car-train crash early Tuesday afternoon at the unguarded S111 rd-New York Central Railroad crossing, about three miles east of Ashtabula.

Dead are Howard Porter, 19, Creek rd., Kingsville and his passengers, David W. Pugh, 17, Ashtabula; Gail Louise Vorous, 17, and Patricia Ann Robertson, 18, also of Ashtabula.

Sheriff's deputies from Jefferson said the train's engineer said his westbound freight, en route from Chicago to New York, was traveling about 65 to 70 mph when he saw the Porter car approach the S111 rd. crossing. He applied the brakes but hit the Porter car, dragging it about 500 feet, when it failed to stop at the crossing.

Two of the victims were thrown from the car at impact while the other two had to be pried from the wreckage.

The quartet had left the Pugh home and were en route for a

DRAWING IS TOMORROW

Absentee Ballots Change Minor Races

Absentee ballots have been counted in Warren County and the official records completed following the May 16 primary election.

While none of the totals for those who ran for major county offices changed too much, several candidates pulled in a few more votes but the status quo remains the same.

Absentee ballots, however, created several races throughout the county for other posts and drawings to determine the nominees will be held at noon tomorrow at the court house.

In Republican ranks ties turned up in Pleasant township for the auditor's jobs between Gail Bimber, Glenn Elliott and Wylis Mead. Lee Ziegler and James G. Marshall vie for township supervisor in Limestone and the race in that township for assessor is between Lyle McKean, Eva Yeager, Patricia Snively, Ed Drukenbrod, L. C. Ziegler and J. Latimer.

Democrats tied for school directors in Region II as follows: four year term, Jane Nordine, Raymond Ralston, June Mickelson, Ellen Smith and Florence Spencer. Ellen Smith, a Republican, carried the GOP nomination for a six year term.

For six year terms as Region II school director, there's a tie between Mary Anderson and Paul Lauffenberger.

Other Democrat contests are as follows: Cherry Grove auditor—Robert N. Jensen, Madolyn J. Wester, Susan C. Gregerson; Elk township supervisor—Ray M. Bennett, Richard P. Campbell; South West auditor—Gene A. Wright, Helen W. Tamer, Paul C. Wright, Cecil E. Dunham; Spring Creek auditor—Sammit Young, William H. Donaldson; school director, six year term (two to be nominated and will also draw for position)—Don H. Whaley, Howard V. Johnson, Manley A. Robbins and Maxine G. Eastman.

Absentee ballots, 172 of which were issued, fell to the commissioners' candidates as follows: Tony Tomassoni, six; Myron Kirberger, two; James Marshall 14, Robert Walsh 26; Ellis Martin, six; Ralph Brasington, 27; Dr. David Rice, 48 (nominated GOP ticket); Blain M. Mead, 52, also the nominee; James Blomquist, 34; John Teconchuk, one and D. H. Lay, 26.

Democrat candidates receiving only a scattering of the absentee votes, with the nominees Chester Walker and Thomas Donnelly accorded four and 15 respectively. Sidney Mason drew two and Lewis L. Crippen, 17.

William E. Rice (R), who won the nomination for re-election as register and recorder chalked up 69 absentee ballots to his opponent, Jack E. McCool's 53. Democrat candidates for the post of county treasurer, John Fago (the winner) received 18 absentee votes while Don Armagost received five.

Republican nominee for county treasurer Florence Hoffman got 102 additional votes and her opponent, Fred Berry, 32.

Unopposed in the primary, Sheriff D. E. Allen and Prothonotary Warren Lowe drew 126 absentee votes each.

Republican candidate for jury commissioner Wilma Toner received 122.

GOP candidates for auditor scored as follows: Russell Dietsch, 94; Henry D. Preston, 68 and Ray Niver 63. Democrat Ralph Summerton drew 21.

Ted Kirsch Joins Area Forest Staff

Ted Kirsch has joined the staff of the supervisor's office Allegheny National Forest as assistant to Robert Ritsch in the lands acquisition office. Kirsch will work in land appraisals in the acquisition program.

He is transferring from the Pine Knot Job Corps Center on the Daniel Boone National Forest in Kentucky. Previously he was on the staff of Monongahela National Forest, Petersburg, W. Va.

"I've been trying to get up here ever since I began with the U.S. Forest Service," Kirsch observes. "This is my type of country. I've had a camp in the Red Bridge area on Kinzua Creek for the past 15 years."

Ted Kirsch's home town is Nicktown in Cambria County. He attended Barnesboro High School and was graduated from Paul Smith College, Paul Smith, N.Y., in forestry in 1960. He immediately entered the U.S. Forest Service on the Monongahela National Forest in W. Va. As soon as he can find a suitable place to live, his wife,

Accident Victim Identified

The victim in Sunday's fatal accident on the Jake's Run rd., the sixth in Warren County this year, has been identified as Paul C. Cooper, 25, of RD 2, Grove City.

State police of the Warren substation withheld the victim's name after the 8 p. m. accident until Cooper's next of kin could be notified.

Trooper Daniel Portzer said the young man died of a fractured skull and broken neck after his small, foreign roadster missed a curve, traveled off the road and hit a large rock, continued on, hit another rock and came to rest on its top.

Cooper, who was alone in the vehicle, was thrown from the car, Portzer said.

Damage was estimated at $500.

TED KIRSCH

Mary Ann (Ludwig) Kirsch and their three small children, Shawn 4, Matthew 3, and Janine 1, will join him. He is looking for some place in the county not more than 10 miles from Warren.

Pair Held After High-Speed Chase

CORRY — Two Spartansburg youths received minor injuries late Tuesday when their car hit a pole and overturned during a high speed chase through downtown Corry.

Dale Blakeslee, 19, RD 2, Spartansburg, the driver of the car and his passenger, Michael Albers, 19, RD 3, Spartansburg, were both treated for cuts and bruises following the accident.

Corry police said they first saw the Blakeslee car racing another vehicle near the intersection of North Center and Columbus sts. Police chased the vehicle over N. Center and onto W. Washington for almost two miles at speeds above 89 mph.

According to police, after almost going out of control several times and leaving skid marks of 250 feet at one intersection and going through two red lights, the Blakeslee car hit the pole on W. Washington and flipped over.

The driver will be charged on several counts, police said.

Former Area Family Jots Job Corps News

An article in the "Flatwoods Flash", a newspaper put out by the Job Corps Camp members at Flatwood, Virginia, recently featured a former Warren family.

Clarence Simones, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Simones, 335 Park st. and his wife, the former Mary Ann Musante, daughter of Mrs. Andrew Musante, 308 Union st., all of Warren and their four children are one of the few remaining "First Families" at Flatwoods.

Simones was recently honored, at Flatwoods annual athletic banquet for his work in developing a wrestling team. Simones for the past two years, has freely devoted the majority of his evenings, after working 9 to 13 hours a day with the Job Corps to the development of the team.

He was awarded a trophy and a vote of thanks for his effort.

Former Job Corps Director Visits Here

Russell Garrigus, his wife Kathryn and their sons Bobby, 3, and Alan, 18 months, were brief visitors in Warren over the holiday.

Garrigus, former assistant ranger on the Sheffield District of Allegheny National Forest, was deputy director on the original team that opened the work at Blue Jay Job Corps Center.

From Blue Jay he went to Ripon Job Corps Center in Vermont, as director. He is now on his way to Cadillac, Michigan, to be director of the Hoxey Job Corps Camp.

The Garrigus family have been visiting relatives of Mrs. Garrigus in Johnsonburg.

IN CELEBRATION OF THE 191st year of American Independence next month, the Conewango Valley Country Club is already developing plans for a very special evening. A committee has been appointed with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Phillips as the chairman. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meacham, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lucia, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rogers, Mrs. Palmer Davis and Mrs. E. M. Bell Jr. — All of whom gathered last Sunday night at the Phillips' for an informal buffet supper and to discuss plans and generally get things started. A dinner-dance will be held this year but, because of the long weekend it will take place at the Conewango Valley Country Club on Monday, July 3rd, the night before this nation is officially declared to be 191 years of age.

A SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY reception was held at the Hemlock Community House by Specialist 4 Raymond A. Thomas, Specialist 4 Kenneth Thomas, Donald and Ronnie Thomas in honor of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Thomas of Pittsfield. Kenneth was host "in absentia" since his military duties at Fort Carson, Colorado, did not permit his presence. A beautifully decorated three tier cake, raised on crystal goblets, was the work of Mrs. Raymond Crull, sister of Mr. Thomas. Aides were Kathy and Sharon Merritt, Melody Gurdak, Mary Ann Cedrone, and Mrs. Becky Cedrone, and Kay Schweitzer, sister of Mrs. Thomas. The lovely floral decorations were from the Schweitzer gardens at Hemlock. Ann Landers
Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter from the Bronxville female presented a fairly solid case for "The Other Woman." She insisted that "the other woman" is not always a tramp and listed among her dazzling credentials a master's degree from Columbia University and a position which pays her $200 a week. One of her principal virtues, she boasted, was a keen appreciation for life and the good things it has to offer. This, she said, is what attracted the man whose wife's philosophy was "Life is a dung heap."

I would like to inquire why a woman with so much on the ball would settle for a married man. Surely a bright, attractive, successful, unattached female with a keen appreciation for life, would be a highly desirable candidate for marriage. Why is she content with a back-alley relationship. She accused her playmate's wife of having a screw loose. Wouldn't you say she has a similar problem?—SPY GLASS

DEAR SPY: I would, indeed. Women who become involved with married men are frequently self-destructive, martyr types. Any gal who finds herself in this spot more than once should face up to this possibility. + + +

DEAR ANN: There is a fad going around school. One student plays like he is the judge and he "marries" a couple who like each other a lot.

The couple that pretends they are getting married invites some of their best friends to the "ceremony" and then the couple kisses at the end and everyone congratulates them. Most of these "marriages" take place right after school, by the locker, or during lunch, in a corner of the lunch room.

A guy who sits next to me in many of my classes has asked me if I would like to marry him in one of these play ceremonies. It's just fun and doesn't mean anything, but I don't know if I want to go that far even for a joke. What do you think?—UNWED AT 13

DEAR UNWED: You're in a tough spot—too old to play house for fun and too young to get married for real. My advice is to pass up the wedding ceremony and let "the groom" buy you an ice cream cone instead. + + +

MRS. CARMELO MAZZURCO (Talcott Studio)

Rosa A. Calamunci Becomes Bride of Carmelo Mazzurco

SS. Peter and Paul Roman Catholic Church in Jamestown was the setting on Saturday, May 27, for the wedding of Rosa Antonia Calamunci and Carmelo Mazzurco. The 9 o'clock morning Nuptial Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father Kenneth Mullen, who also read the double ring wedding rites.

Wedding music was provided by Miss Collins, organist, and Sam Culsiman, vocal soloist.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Gaetana Calamunci of 12 Crossman street, and the late Mr. Anthony Calamunci. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rosario Mazzurco of Messina, Italy.

Approaching the altar on the arm of her twin brother, Gust Calamunci, the bride was wearing white nylon organza over tulle, styled with scalloped sabrina neckline, voluminous long skirt and a long flowing train which depended from the shoulders. Her bouffant veil of silk illusion was secured by a double tiara of organza petals with lace and seed pearls. Her bouquet of white roses rested on a wedding Bible.

Miss Maria Calamunci, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor in white lace over pink tulle, with a matching head-dress. She carried a bouquet of roses. Dressed in similar ensembles, but of white lace over turquoise tulle, were the bridesmaids: Mary Conti, Virginia Conti, Sarah Cuprino, Sarah Riolo. The flower girls were Misses Tammy Calamunci a niece of the bride, in a white lace and green tulle frock, and Mistress Amilia Grasso, in white lace over pink tulle. Each carried bouquets of white roses.

Carl Cappa, cousin of the bridegroom was the best man, and the following cousins served as ushers, Frank Gullotti, Carmelo Mazzurco, Sam Gullotti. Master Johnny Calamunci, nephew of the bride was the ring-bearer.

The mother of the bride wore a navy blue eyelet batiste dress and jacket with a corsage of white roses.

A reception for 500 was held in Hilltop Hall. Master and mistress of ceremonies were Mr. and Mrs. Gust Calamunci. Aides were Miss Linda Colera, Miss Sherry Colera, Miss Donna Armeli, Miss Mary Endriolo, Miss Lisa Gullotti.

Afterwards the new Mr. and Mrs. Mazzurco left on a honeymoon trip to New York City.

The rehearsal dinner was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gullotti, uncle and aunt of the bridegroom.

Grace Methodist Junior Choir Is Entertained By Director

The Junior Choir of Grace Methodist Church was entertained, with its director, Mrs. Dwight Sizle, at a dinner party held in Fellowship Hall of the church. Tables were colorfully decorated with balloons and flowers, and each choir member received appropriate game favors. Colorful candy tied in nylon net was also at each place.

Other guests present were the Rev. and Mrs. Ralph Findley, the Rev. and Mrs. Harold Knappenberger, and members of the choir robing committee: Mrs. John Colter, Chairman, Mrs. Harold Wall, Mrs. Frank Battaglia, Mrs. William Smith and Miss Sally Smith. One other member of the committee, Mrs.

Glenn Mielson, was unable to be present.

Perfect attendance pins were presented to Barbara Colter, Cheryl Nelson, Fred Stimmel, Karen Adams, June Allen, Cindy Bailey, Becky Colter, Jani Berdine, Chuck Sly, Lynn Christensen, and Laurie Christie. Cindy Bailey, choir secretary, presented the director with a plant garden in appreciation of her work with the group.

The dinner was prepared and served by members of the Dorcas Society, with Mrs. Arthur Cobb serving as chairman for the evening.

MRS. PHILIP CHARLES ROLLER
(Talcott Studio)

Kent-Roller Nuptials Solemnized On Saturday

Donna Sue Kent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Kent of RD 2, Ashville, New York, and Philip Charles Roller were united in marriage on Saturday, May 27, in the Watts Flats Methodist Church. The two o'clock afternoon service was performed by the Rev. Armes, pastor, who read the double ring wedding rites.

The candlelit altar was ornamented with baskets of white lilies and pink tulips and the family pews were set apart with white satin bows.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of embroidered Chantilly lace with scalloped neckline, long tapering sleeves and a full skirt with a chapel sweep. Her fingertip veil of tulle cascaded from a jeweled coronet. She carried a bouquet of pink roses, lilies-of-the-valley and ivy.

Alby King, sister of the bride, from Norfolk, Virginia, was the matron of honor and wore an aqua linen dress with matching bow headress and veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of spring flowers.

The bridesmaids, Cynthia

Kent, sister of the bride, and Kathy Kelly, a cousin of the groom, were costumed identically to the honor attendant. Tim Roller, brother of the groom, was the best man, and ushers were Warren Whitford and Reid Strickland. Master John Kent, brother of the bride, was the ringbearer.

A reception in the church parlors for one hundred guests, followed the wedding. Master and mistress of ceremonies were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Faron of Buffalo, aides were Regina Hodges, Gloria Buits, Mrs. Howard Strickland, Mrs. Charles Nash, Mrs. Conrad King, Mary Ann Roller managed the guest book.

After a wedding trip to the New England States, Mr. and Mrs. Roller will be at home to their friends at 210 Hopkins avenue, Ashville, New York.

The newlyweds are both graduates of Panama Central School. Mr. Roller served four years in the United States Air Force.

The rehearsal dinner was given by the parents of the groom at the home of the church.

Hints From Heloise

Sure Cure Weeding

DEAR LADIES:

This is especially for you since it seems like men just don't do it right when it comes to pulling grass and weeds from our flower beds and gardens. And besides it's us gals who do most of the weeding anyway, eh?

Most men just pull the top of the weed off, though, and we know it's going to grow right back again as long as that old root is there.

Sometimes you can use weed killer but in your flower bed or garden it may harm the plants.

The problem is we must get to the root itself.

The easiest way I know is to remove the nozzle from your garden hose and soak that bed thoroughly. Literally flood it.

Turn off the water and wait about an hour. Along about this time you will see that all the water has gone right into the ground. This is a good start to getting to the root of all our troubles.

Flood it again until water is standing in your flower bed and the earth is soaked completely.

Remove your shoes (this job should be done barefoot) or at least wear some old shoes you don't care about if you can't stand to have your feet in mud.

Attach the nozzle to your garden hose again and turn the faucet on full blast. We're going to use this for an automatic digger! So step back into that flower bed gals.

Instead of yanking up those weeds and breaking off the Administration degree.

Named At Watson PTA Meeting

The regular meeting of the Watson Township PTA was held at the Plank Road School recently. Mrs. Lucius Flasher led in devotions. Mrs. James Marshall installed the new officers as follows: President, Mrs. William Snaveley; vice president, Mrs. Gordon Spencer; secretary, Mrs. Ray Mickelson; treasurer, Mrs. Charles Snaveley.

The new president appointed Mrs. Flasher and Mrs. Edgar Burris on the membership committee for the new year. The PTA voted to purchase two film strips with two records for Reading Readiness.

The meeting was turned over to Mrs. Marshall for the White Elephant Sale which netted a profit of $36.80. The next meeting will be held in September. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ralph Fry and Mrs. Joseph Misik.

And, gals, the best time to do this is on weekends when your husband is home. He can see how hard you work. Maybe he'll get the message at least let's hope so.

Willow Creek News

Mr. and Mrs. Bartley Smith and son of Syracuse, N. Y., spent the holiday weekend with his father, Charles Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. William Bandy, Mr. Donald Strand of Kane, County S.S. missionary, was present at the local Sunday School session to show slides of the first missionary journey of St. Paul.

Mrs. Charles Wolven was present at a meeting of her club which was held last Friday evening at the home of Miss Mary Davison of Bradford.

Mrs. Milton Erickson was a business visitor in Salamanca last Friday.

Mr. Richard Scouter of Rochester has been a recent visitor at the home of his sister, Mrs. Gene Hopley.

Miss Charlene Lough has returned to Salem, W. Va., following a week's visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Good. Several parents attended the

May festival held at West Branch School last Wednesday. Word has been received here that Mrs. Guy Crooks of Wichita Falls, Tex., is hospitalized in Tulsa, Okla., in the St. Francis Hospital. Mrs. Crooks suffered a heart attack May 20th while visiting at the home of her son, Ray Crooks of Tulsa. Daily vacation Bible School will be held from July 10th to the 14th, it was also announced at Sunday School that a Bible Camp for children ages 9 and up is to be held near Martenville, Pa., from July 23 to the 29th.

David Rhoades, who has been visiting his parents here for several days left Sunday for the National Camping School, Menham, N.J., where he will have instruction in field sports from June 11th to the 17th. Following that he will go to N. New York, N. J., where he will be field sports director at Alexander Hamilton Council for the summer.

Sixteen members of the Good Neighbor Club attended the meeting held on Thursday at the Community Center.

The session was conducted by Mrs. James Cobb. An election of officers was held which were: President, Mrs. James Cobb; Secretary, Mrs. Emily Miller; Treasurer and Social Secretary, Ethel Clancy. It was also decided that a separate collection would be made at each meeting for a memorial fund; also to send $5 to the Bolivar Run Nazarene Church as a memorial to Mr. Alex Jarrett, a former longtime resident here.

The Good Neighbor Club members' picnic is to be held in June at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Potts with a committee consisting of Mrs. Margaret Keach, Mrs. Emily Miller, and Mrs. Helen Alferink in charge. The community children's picnic is to be held in July, and the annual community valley picnic will be held in August.

Members are to meet at the home of Mrs. Ethel Clancy this week to sew for the Hannum Memorial Home.

Funeral services were held last Friday in the Hollenbeck Funeral Chapel of Bradford for Mrs. Harvey Newton of Custer City, whose death occurred in Bradford Hospital on Tuesday. She was the sister of Harold Keesler of this place, and had many friends in this community.

Mrs. Irene Crooks of Bradford passed away at the Bradford Hospital on Tuesday. Burial was made in Willow Dale Cemetery here. Mrs. Crooks and family were former residents here.

Funeral services for Mr. Alex C. Jarrett were held at Hollenbeck's last Saturday. Burial was in Riverview Cemetery in Corydon. He died in Bradford Hospital last Wednesday. He had been living with a daughter, Mrs. Lucille Burritt in Bradford and in ill health for several months.

Mr. Jarrett operated a farm in Willow Creek for several years, moving to Arizona and to California. He returned to Willow Creek several years ago to live.

Mrs. Jarrett died one year ago. He leaves two daughters and three sons, several grandchildren, also two brothers and a sister.
